Warning to Arabs
Pittsburgh's Big Day

Beware of Emotion

YESTERDAY BRITAIN made the Arabs understand that murder is not a safe pastime under a British mandate.

At Haifa three Arabs were sentenced to death by Chief Justice Sir Michael MacDonnell, for causing the death of Isaac Matmann.

The men convicted, and the Arabs witnessing the trial called upon Allah to resent it.

Allah didn't say anything.

He was missing from the scene, as the angels were once missing in Constantinople. Christians had been assured that at the last moment, if the Turks took Constantinople, angels would appear in the square before the Church of St. Sofia and smite them.

Turks took Constantinople and have held the city through all the centuries since. No angels have appeared.

Moral: If you want anything done, don't depend on Allah.

Signs of Mohammedan and Arab unrest in Algeria. Moorish tribesmen, attacking French troops on the south slope of the Atlas mountains, killed 50 and wounded many.

A column of the Foreign Legion, hard fighters, killed many Moors.

No serious Mohammedan uprising has occurred for hundreds of years. When Mohammed put his men on a prohibition basis, they fought marvellously. Then their energy died out.

If another Mohammedan upheaval should come, airplanes, gas and tanks will take care of it in a new way.

Pittsburgh had a big celebration yesterday, and for good reasons.

Fifty years ago you could wade across the Ohio river with water no higher than your knee.

Now the Government has built 50 dams, costing $118,000,000, giving at least nine feet of water, enough for large boats all year 'round throughout the 1000 miles of stream between Pittsburgh and the Mississippi.

Ohio river traffic has increased in 12 years from four million six hundred thousand to twenty million nine hundred thousand tons.

The river now makes possible a saving of $20,000,000 a year in freight charges.

Dr. Bloomfield, noted obstetrician, conducting a Caesarean clinic in Chicago, said modern women lacked "the resistance their mothers and grandmothers had for undergoing the hard ships of childbirth." Therefore Caesarean operations will be resorted to more an more.

Necessity for Caesarean operations could be avoided by more exercise, more nourishing food and more weight.

58,000 SEE CAGLE, STAR ARMY BACK, RUN WILD AT HARVARD STADIUM

By NICK FLATLEY

Harvard Stadium, Oct. 19—Harvard and Army battled furiously for a full hour here, this afternoon, and at the finish, they were all even.

The score was 20 to 20.

The tie represented a moral victory for the Cadets as the Crimson was a 7 to 5 favorite to win. The Cambridge machine did as well as was expected, playing fine football throughout the contest. It didn't win because Capt. Christian Cagle and his mates from the Plain did a lot better than expected.

A crowd of close to 60,000, the largest ever to see a game in the Hub, was present at the spectacle. It received its money's worth and then some, for it not only enjoyed a great game but saw the Cadets put on their great aerial before the season's end.

FIRST PERIOD

Army kicked off to Harvard, after Harvard won the toss. Murrell kicked off to Gilligan on the five-yard line. Gilligan got back to the 34-yard line where he was dropped by Price. In two rushes Harvard failed to gain an inch through the Army line. Hughley kicked to Bowman on his Army 40-yard line, and Bowman got back to the 50-yard line. Bowman had fumbled and the ball was recovered by Barrett of Harvard. Bowman had to be carried off the field apparently unconscious, but Gilligan was able to remain in the lineup. Gilbert replaced Bowman at quarterback for Army.

Army was offsides and was penalized five yards, bringing the ball to Army's 45-yard line. White was stopped at the center of the line for no gain. Again Gilligan hiked the ball end and was thrown down by Cagle for no gain. Dyer made a forward pass and were across the Army left end for a first down on the Army's 29-yard line. Gilligan made three yards through center.

Gilligan made a nice run through left tackle for seven and brought down for Murrell for no gain, making it third and 4 to go on the Army 29-yard line. Breaking the game cost Harvard 5 yards. A drop kick by Furness was partly blocked and was recovered by Turner for a first down on the Army's 13-yard line. O'Keefe picked up 2 yards through the right side of the line, tackled by Bill Tickinor. Harvard was penalized 15 yards for piling on. Cagle's pass was in Gilligan's arms, but Gilligan could not hold the ball, making it second down for 13 yards on the one 30-yard line. Bill Tickinor stopped Cagle without gain.

Murrell kicked to Putnam, who was run outside on the Harvard 20-yard line. White raced through the center of the line for a first down, on Harvard's 43-yard line. Gilligan made a yard at first try. Hughley was stopped by Lazar for no gain. Harvard's first lateral was Gilligan to Putnam, was fumbled and recovered by Putnam on the Harvard 26-yard line.

Hughley kicked from his 25-yard line to Cagle on the Army 32-yard line and was dropped in his tracks by Dyer. Cagle, where he was stopped by White. A forward pass from Cagle to Murrell was successful, giving the Army a first down on Harvard's 24-yard line.

On a hidden ball play Cagle made five yards through the center of the line. Murrell made first down on Harvard's 19-yard line. In an attempt to knife through the line Cagle was stopped for no gain. Murrell made three yards through center. Cagle made one yard through left side of Harvard line. Cagle was again stopped by White on his own goal line and White got to his 12-yard line before he was stopped by O'Keefe, making first down for Harvard. White made two yards through Hallsinger, but Cagle was pushed five yards for offside bringing the ball to the Harvard 20-yard line. Putnam's attempt to cut through tackle was stopped by Carbinaris on the first period ended.

SECOND PERIOD

Harvard was penalized five yards for offside. Gilligan ran at the left side of the Army line but Polo Grounds, N. Y., Oct. 19—The eighteenth renewal of the annual football struggle between Fordham and Holy Cross ran second or third in point of attendance at local games today.

FIRST PERIOD.

The opening quarter produced no scores and only one first down for each team. Holy Cross got a first down with the aid of a five-yard penalty, but couldn't punch any gaping holes in the Fordham line on power plays. Both lines held well and few of the end plays gained substantial yardage. Only occasional passes were attempted and the ball see-sawed up and down the field on kicks by Clancy and Tracey until near the end of the period, when Fordham gathered some momentum with a forward pass of 15 yards, Fisher to McMahon. They were on their way to another first down near midfield when the whistle blew.

Score—H. C. 0, Fordham 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Himelberg replaced Weiss in the Holy Cross line at the beginning of the second quarter. Fordham completed a first down but was

BRITAIN'S COMMERCIAL DIRIGIBLE REALLY A WAR MACHINE

CAN BE MADE MOTHER SHIP FOR PLANES

Test Flight of Six Hours Over Midlands Taken by Novel Craft

By MAJOR GEOFFREY WARD

The writer, a former member of the Imperial Air Council, was aboard the giant English government owned dirigible R-101 on the six-hour test flight. In this article, written exclusively for Universal service, Major Ward reveals that the R-101 may in an emergency be converted into a mammoth mother ship for airplanes in time of war.

Universal Service Special Cable.
(Copyright 1929 by Universal Service, Inc. All world rights reserved. Reproduction in full or part forbidden.)

London, Oct. 19—I traveled yesterday for more than six hours aboard Great Britain's great war machine the R-101 over the English Midlands.

I call the R-101 a war machine, because that is what in reality it and its sister ship the R-100 are designed to be. I am able now to reveal exclusively that the R-101 and its sistership equally—are designed as motherships for air planes, and for naval arms service when ever the emergency calls.

Great Britain has put out under the guise of commercial airships which have been denounced as failures before launching, two extraordinary airships, which not only will carry fighting airplanes, but will rely upon them for their maximum speed to the mothership.

NEITHER FOR COMMERCE.

As perhaps any qualified technical expert might realize, the R-101 upon which I rode, can never be a commercial success, and for good reason to believe that neither she nor her sistership have been designed for commercial successes—but as war machines.

Here is the surprising feature of the R-101, 700 for the first time—not only does it cover distance, can any or all of the five auxiliary propelling airplanes be released at a given signal, but plans are being perfected whereby they can reattach themselves to the mothership in their own power at any time.

It is a supremely novel and logical construction, this thoroughly worked-out idea of the auxiliary airplanes contributing to their place in the stream of the 700 foot high power engines, and capable of release and rejuncture at any time. I understand that the auxiliary airplanes will be carried in secret hulls within the near future.

HEAT TOO GREAT

All of which leads one to wonder if Sir Dennistoun Burney, designer of the two airships deliberately constructed, when his recent book characterizing Great Britain's two great airships as already obsolete as a financial expert.

The R-101, at least, was built for regular passenger service to India according to the official categories of the air ministry. This I know to be impossible. If she ever flies over the Indian Ocean for any distance most parts of Arabia the greatest height she can reach is 1500 feet, where the temperature is normally 125 degrees. In this temperature her gas would expand to such an extent as to reduce her lifting power to a substantial impossibility.

ENRIGHT BARES ROTHSTEIN CHARGES

Links Police Official With Papers Taken From Slain Man's Safe

New York, Oct. 19 (AP)—Richard E. Enright, former police commissioner and now mayoralty candidate of the Square Deal party, today made his promised expose in the Arnold Rothstein murder case.

In substance, Enright's charges are:

on the night Rothstein was shot (Nov. 4, 1928) or the night he died (Nov. 6, 1928) two of his friends, William Wellman and George (Josh) Miller, took certain confidential papers from Rothstein's safe to Wellman's apartment in the midtown section.

There, Mr. Enright says he is informed, was James F. Sinnott, now fifth deputy police commissioner and then secretary to the late Joseph Warren, police commissioner at the time of the Rothstein shooting.

When Sinnott learned they had Rothstein's papers he left abruptly, saying, "This is no place for me," according to Enright.

Those papers, Enright says, are very important in the case and have never been found. He believes Miller still has them.

Efforts of his agents of find the two men have been unavailing, he says.

Sinnott, when questioned about the Enright statement, said he did not even know one of the men named and was only casually acquainted with the other. He denied emphatically the Enright statement.

George McManus and Hymie Biller have been indicted for this crime. McManus, free on $50,000 bail, is due to go on trial November 12.

MANY KILLED IN BATTLE OF CHINESE

Nationalists and People's Army Fighting Along Railroad in Honan Province

Shanghai, Oct. 19 (AP)—Heavy fighting between Kuominchun (People's army) and Nationalist troops at Yenshi in northwest Honan was reported tonight in a dispatch from Japanese sources in Nanking.

The fighting was said to be on the line of the Lunghai railroad. Both sides suffered heavy casualties.

The Kuominchun appeared to be heading southward, with Hankow and Hankang as objectives. It was said they had begun a siege of Sinyang and Fanchang, important cities northwest of Hankow.

The revolting "Ironsides" regiment has switched its march suddenly from Kwangsi toward Hankow, as if to converge with the Kuominchun.

Meanwhile Chiang Kai-Shek, Nationalist President and generalissimo, has concentrated his choice troops at Hankow.

Adherents of Feng Yu-Hsiang in Shanghai said today that Feng, with the permission of Yen Hsi Shan, "model" governor of Shansi province, left that province and re-entered Shensi. He previously was reported arrested by Yen.

Dr. Bloomfield says: "Children will have to be born as was Caesar."

Caesar's mother never needed a Caesarean operation, although that legend of a "Caesarean section" grew up in the Middle Ages.

Roman law said that every woman dying in advanced pregnancy must be cut open after death and the child saved.

The idea was that it might be a boy, and a useful Roman soldier.

The Caesarean operation was performed on a living woman for the first time about 425 years ago, when a Swiss pig-gelder operated on his wife.

Until the first half of the last century more than half the women died. Therefore, craniotomy, killing the child by crushing the skull, was generally practiced.

Modern asepsis and improved methods of suturing the incised wall have almost eliminated danger.

Underfeeding, and a mania for the lavish figure, with two parallel lines instead of hips, will multiply Caesarean operations.

Overwork is not so dangerous, but violent and sudden is only dangerous, says Dr C P Thompson, learned student of the human body. "A strong emotion can shuffle a person's body just as truly as can a knife," says the doctor.

However, a life that amounts to anything is made up of strong emotions.

A giant turtle on the Galapagos Islands never has strong emotions and lives 500 or 600 years. And who would be a Galapagos turtle? Better be Keats, Alexander or Napoleon.

Thousands Welcome Cadets to Hub

By HARRY A BENWELL

Swinging through streets massed with cheering Bostonians, the Point Cadet brigade broke loose for the second consecutive year today for their football game with Harvard.

To the accompaniment of stirring tunes by the famous Military Academy Band, the best-mannered body of troops in the world thronged through Back Bay streets, Commonwealth avenue to Cambridge.

Heads up, eyes front, marching in perfect unison, the cadets received a tremendous greeting, as after wave of applause going from the assembled thousands they climbed to their feet.

It was announced that between season and holiday was the parade and review.

The game crowd at the Stadium was approximately 40,000.

Special trains, four in all, cadets arrived at the Huntington yards of the Boston & Albany from the new Commerce Building shortly after 8:30.

Forming up in the yards with Col. Robert C. Richardson in command, they marched along Huntington ave. to Dartmouth st., to Copley sq., where a tremendous throng awaited them, and then through to Beacon st., to Charles and the Common.

GREETED FROM WINDOWS.

In addition to the crowds on the sidewalks, many of whom had waited for hours, every window in buildings on the line of march had its complement of enthusiastic spectators who greeted the cadets with shouts and cheers.

Virtually the entire student body of the academy was in the line of march. 1211 men, only the football squad and some fourteen cadets being absent.

As they entered the Common and swung into column of platoons for the review a resounding cheer rose from the thousands who had gathered for the spectacle.

REVIEWED BY ALLEN

In the reviewing stand were Gov. Frank G. Allen, Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge, Maj.-Gen. William R Smith, superintendent of the Military Academy; Maj.-Gen. Preston Brown, commanding the First Corps Area; Brig.-Gen. Merriweather L. Walker, commanding the Coast Artillery Corps; Col. Walter K. Wilson, executive officer of the Academy; Col. Richardson, troop commander at the Academy; First Lieuts. F. L. Parks and H. D. McHugh, aides-de-camp to Gen. Smith; Adjt.-Gen. Jesse F. Stevens, Massachusetts National Guard, and Capt. James C. Crockett.

Before the march past of the review, Governor Allen presented 12 gold footballs for the cadets company guidons, completing the set started last year with the presentation of two for the colors.

In making the presentation to Col. Richardson, the Governor said:

"Massachusetts is honored by the visit of the corps of cadets of the United States Military Academy, and it is our earnest hope that this annual pilgrimmage of corps from West Point, which now seen resumed after an absence of 107 years, will continue many years to come.

"As a token of the esteem of the people of Massachusetts for the corps and what it represents, I have the honor and privilege to present to you here today these gold guidons bearing the seal of the United States government and also that of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

"I trust these emblems will long serve as reminders of this happy occasion when you journeyed here to our historic Commonwealth. We welcome our great academy for its service to America.

"I am glad to pay tribute to that great institution for its noble traditions and its historic past filled with romance and interest, its splendid ideals, its high standards and lofty patriotism, so wonderfully exemplified by those who have gone out of that institution and have served their country well in peace and in war and have, through their devotion to American principles, won the undying gratitude of our people.

"May I express the hope that this delightful custom once more inaugurated after an absence of more than a century, may become an annual event to which West Point and our ancient Commonwealth may look forward to with happy anticipation and pleasure."

Col. Richardson, in receiving the spear heads, expressed the deep gratitude of the Academy, and said that every time they were worn they would be a constant reminder to the cadets of these happy occasions.

It was revealed that the spear heads presented by Massachusetts last year were very acceptable, being the first ever received, and were on exhibition at West Point for some time.

CONGRATULATES CAPTAIN

Immediately following the presentation, which was made with the Cadets drawn up in regimental front, Governor Allen called out of ranks Cadet Captain George Herbert, a Boston boy, and congratulated him. The governor told Cadet Captain Herbert, who lives at 124 Bayswater st., Orient Heights, that he knows his father.

The regiment, carrying in addition to its own colors and guidons the flag of the City of Boston presented last year, then moved out in the march past of the review in column of platoons.

Line after line of gray-clad, straight-backed young figures swept past the reviewing stand, moving as one man, every cadet responding in unison to the word of command.

The colorful ceremony was brief, and eighteen minutes after they had entered the Common the officer-soldiers were again on their way.

GIRL GRILLED IN 'SLAVE' PROBE

An important girl witness, sought for some time by federal officers in their white slave inquiry resulting from the murder here of Samuel Reinstein, has been found, it was learned today.

Although the authorities refused to make public her name, it was learned she was interviewed by Asst. U. S. Atty. Hubert Thompson in a private office outside the federal building.

The search for Moe and Jeff Neuman, wanted in connection with the Reinstein murder, centered in Bethlehem, Pa., today, according to word received by Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle from Bethlehem police.

It was learned that information supplied by the mysterious girl proved highly important to the Federal authorities investigating white slave traffic in and about Boston.

Neither Thompson nor Assistant U. S. Atty. John W. Schenck would divulge any details of her story. She was taken from the private office where she was questioned and will be under the protection of the authorities until the federal grand jury convenes Tuesday.

BIG LOSSES IN WALL ST.

New York, Oct. 19 (INS)—Millions of dollars were lost by "bulls" in an exciting market on the New York Stock Exchange today when prices, under an avalanche of selling, dropped precipitously, declines ranging from a point to 24¾ points by Westinghouse Electric.

It was a tremendously active session, total sales for the two-hour market, aggregating 3,484,000 shares, as compared with 2,449,000 shares for the two-hour session last Saturday. At the close today the ticker was more than an hour behind recording sales.

Brokers milled around the trading posts on the floor of the exchange as stock after stock was hammered down, including such substantial issues as General Electric, Montgomery Ward and American Can. A large crowd viewed the scene from the gallery of the exchange.

A final clean-up in weakly margined stocks was indicated today as thousands of shares of stocks held by small outside traders were thrown on the market.

Numerous 5000 and 10,000-share blocks of utility and specialty stocks crowded the selling lists as pool support was withdrawn.

The victorious bears concentrated their attack on the high-priced favorites which led the skyward movement earlier in the year and succeeded in bringing them nearer to earth than they have been in more than a year.

Railroad stocks, oils and motors bore the brunt of fairly heavy selling. General Motors dipped about 2 points to a new low of 60½; Chrysler, Nash, Studebaker and Hudson lost about a point on the average. Selling of the rails was in small volume, Standard Oil of New Jersey lost about 2 points and Atlantic Refining 2½.

2 Banks Summoned in Rum Ring Probe

Newark, N. J., Oct. 19 (AP)—William J. Calhoun, prohibition administrator for New Jersey, today said accounts of members of the liquor syndicate uncovered in raids Wednesday, have been subpoenaed from two New Jersey and two New York banks. One of these accounts, he said, was in the Federal Trust Company of Newark and another in the bank of America of New York city.

New York, Oct. 19 (AP)—A check for $1500 signed by Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, was being sought today among the documents seized by federal authorities in their raid on the headquarters of the Atlantic Coast Rum Smuggling Syndicate.

James E. Wilkinson, assistant United States attorney in Brooklyn, said payment had been stopped on the check, which was made out to a member of the syndicate and sent last month. He said he did not know how Capone sent it from the jail in Philadelphia where he is serving a year's sentence for carrying concealed weapons.

One official asserted that although the Capone check was a blunder from its potential possibilities of revealing the ramifications of the syndicate's operations were such that, if it developed, it would "blow things wide open."

Federal authorities professed to see another possible connection between Capone's gangsters and the syndicate in the mysterious kidnaping last June of Willard H. Elliott, vice-president of the Hobart Trust Company of Passaic, N. J. When Elliott returned after six days he could not explain his kidnaping, but described his abductors as Chicago gangsters.

Two representatives of the attorney's office at Trenton went to Passaic today to investigate the possibility that Elliott had been held in connection with efforts to force financial aid from his bank for the smuggling operations.

Investigation of the banking connections of the syndicate, which listed profits at the rate of $2,000,000 in six months, brought out that one of the seven banks in which accounts were carried recorded them in code. This account, Robert B. Watts, United States attorney in Brooklyn, said was entered on the bank's books as "XL."

JAIL STUDENT PROWLER

John M. Hallahan, a student at the Harvard School of Business Administration, was sentenced to an indefinite term in the Concord reformatory today after pleading guilty to charges of drunkenness and disturbing the peace in Judge Arthur P. Stone's court.

Hallahan, who lives at No. 25 Gallatin hall, a dormitory attached to the school, was arrested while hiding in a tree to which he fled after entering a dormitory at Leslie school, Cambridge, where 35 girl students were asleep.

His action created a panic among the girls and resulted in a deluge of calls to the police for aid from the Brattle sq. police station.

In imposing sentence Judge Stone said: "I am imposing so severe a sentence because it was a girls' dormitory into which this fellow went while intoxicated."

SEIZE LEADERS IN CUBAN PLOT

Havana, Oct. 19 (AP)—The secret police believed today they had stamped out a plot against the government of President Machado with arrest of four Cubans, formerly prominent in public life.

It was believed charges of sedition would be filed against them and that charges of attempt to incite rebellion might be filed against 16 others, whose names were signed to a revolutionary manifesto seized by the Government agents.

The four arrested are Alfredo Avila, plantation owner of Santiago de las Vegas; Pedro Valles Fernandes and Dr. Antonio Beruff y Mendieta, Havana attorneys, and Sexto Aguiro Padron.

The secret police said the names of the following also were signed to the manifesto: Col. Carlos Mendieta, Juan Guadarrio Gonzes, former senator; Aurelio Hevia, former Secretary of the Interior; Roberto Mendez Penate, former Governor of Pinar Del Rio province; Aurelio Alvarez, former president of the Senate, and Alejandro Vergara, newspaperman.

4 File Petitions in Bankruptcy Court

Tigar Bearings Co., dealers in auto parts, Brookline. Liabilities, $17,300; assets, $4510.

Walter B. Ensign, truck driver, Springfield. Liabilities, $5450; assets, none.

Leo F. Okula, farming and trucking, North Hatfield. Liabilities, $4632; assets, none.

Barnum is Better

BLAME GANG FOR 400 FIRES

By Associated Press.

Police of Hingham and Cohasset were today seeking a gang of youthful firebugs believed responsible for nearly 400 fires in Hingham alone since the first of the year.

Rewards have been posted in both towns for their apprehension and conviction.

With 387 woods, grass and brush fires on record since the first of the year, Hingham's annual appropriation of $34,000 for fire fighting has been expended and the board of fire engineers has called a meeting for Monday to ask additional funds for the rest of the year.

Investigation of several of the fires revealed ingenious methods which gave the incendiariste ample time to leave the vicinity before flames broke out.

H. C. BANS TRIP TO FORDHAM

Worcester, Oct. 19—While the Holy Cross football team was in New York today for its classic clash with Fordham, the local student body moped at home, forbidden time off to attend the game.

The student body made strenuous protests against the ruling of the faculty, contending it has always been the custom to give them the day off.

The seniors selected today as their annual holiday, but although the privilege of selecting a holiday has always been theirs, the faculty refused to honor their request.

Students were outspoken in their denunciation of what they called the unfairness of the faculty, claiming the heads of the institution want them to save their money for the coming Brown game at Worcester.

The undergraduates declared they had far more interest in the traditional contest with Fordham and have expressed their opinions in no uncertain terms since the edict was issued three days ago.

Elks to Fete New Manager of Hotel

Thomas F. Lockney, exalted ruler of Boston Lodge of Elks, and his brother members who represent the lodge in the operation of "the Boston Elks Hotel, Monday evening will tender a dinner and dance to the new hotel manager, Albert B. Caldwell.

Many prominent State and city officials, who are members of the order, as well as numerous others prominent in professional and business activities, including many of the leading Boston hotel men, have accepted invitations. The occasion promises to be one of the most elaborate social events the Boston Elks have conducted for years.

Woman Lost in Woods Is Found

Monroe, Oct. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Elbert Thayer of this little hill town was today recovering from 24 hours' exposure in the woods. The woman was gathering ferns when she lost her way, although scarcely a mile from her home. Searching parties from Monroe and nearby Massachusetts and Vermont communities combed the hills until she was found beneath an evergreen tree suffering from the unseasonable cold.

SENATE VOTES FOR DEBENTURE

Washington, Oct. 19 (INS)—Bowling over administration efforts, spearheaded by Democratic-Insurgent Republican coalition today approved the export debenture plan of farm relief as a "rider" to the tariff bill.

The action was taken in the face of warnings by administration leaders that President Hoover would veto the tariff bill if it contains the debenture.

The vote was 42 to 34 in favor of the debenture.

In again smashing the administration forces the Senate apparently turned power to dictate the new tariff bill over to the coalition, which is backing a program to lift agriculture rates and build up industrial tariff boosts to a few "sick" industries.

The debenture victory was not unexpected, the Senate having voted to include the plan in the $500,000,000 farm relief bill last spring by a vote of 47 to 44, only to take it out at the insistence of the House.

Under its provisions the federal farm board would be empowered to put the plan into operation, to issue debentures on exportable farm products equal to one-half the tariff on them, with a straight bounty of two cents a pound on exported cotton. The plan, it is believed, would cost the treasury $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts voted against the debenture, as did the Republican senators of all the New England States.

Soviet Plane Hops Off

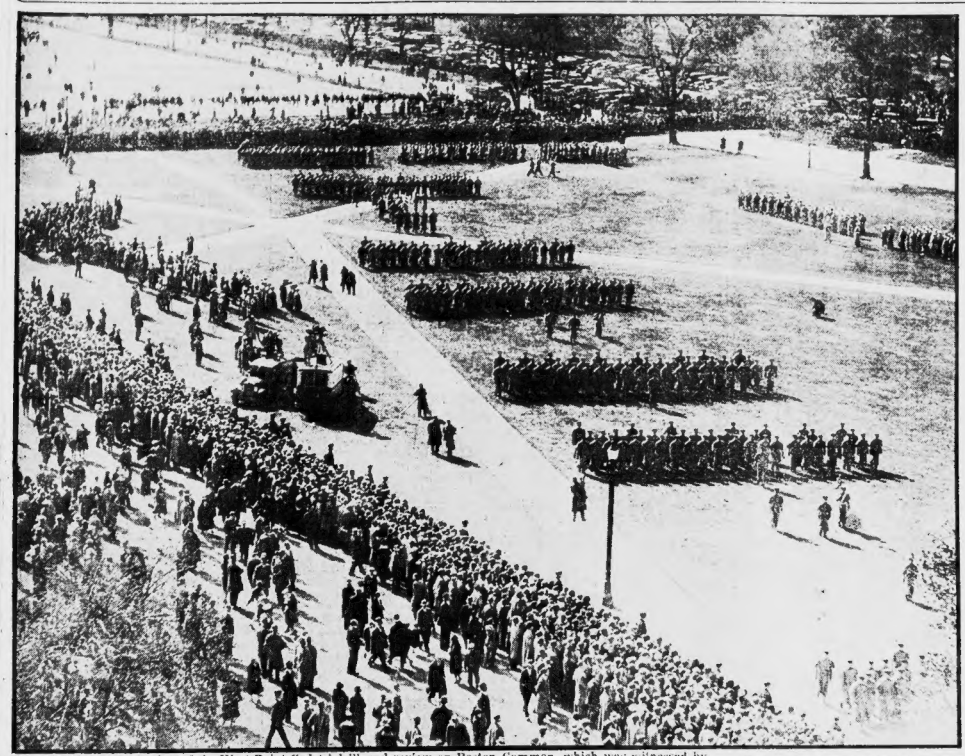
HOW HUB PAID HOMAGE TODAY TO BEST-DRILLED MEN IN WORLD



Exceptional panoramic view of the West Point Cadets' drill and review on Boston Common, which was witnessed by thousands of thrilled spectators. High dignitaries in political, civil and military life reviewed the cadets. (All photos by Boston Evening American staff photographer.)

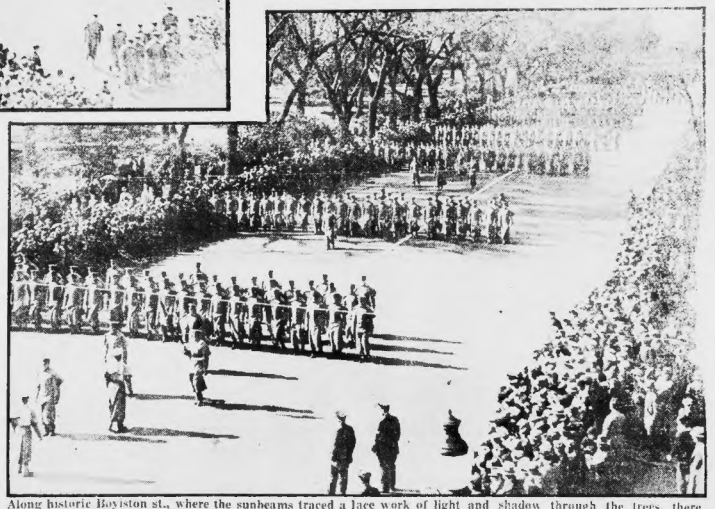
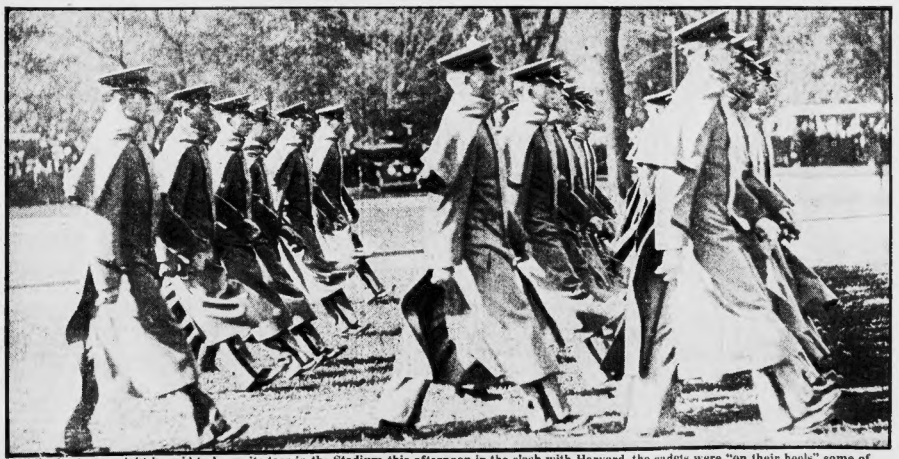
This photo made on the Common shows the civil and military officials reviewing the cadets. Maj.-Gen. Smith is superintendent of West Point. Col. Richardson is commandant of cadets.



Along historic Boylston st., where the sunbeams traced a lace work of light and shadow through the trees, there marched today the hosts of future generals. Vast crowds lined the way and cheered to an echo the precise perfection of the cadets.



While the Army might be said to be on its toes in the Stadium this afternoon in the clash with Harvard, the cadets were "on their heels" some of the time as they marched through Boston's winding streets and swept in colorful waves across the greensward of the Common. Note the precision of their step. They have the art of unity down to perfection.

Debutantes' Season at Its Height in November With Crowded Program

Dinners, Dances, Teas and Luncheons to Keep Society on the Jump

THE HEIGHT OF THE DEBUTANTES' season will be during the coming month, judging from Miss David O. Porter's calendar. Only on Sundays will they be able to draw a long breath. The month of October will be in retrospect quite calm. On Nov. 1, Mrs. Frances P. Allen of Commonwealth ave. is entertaining for Miss Helen B. Allen at luncheon at the Algonquin Club. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Cosby are presenting their twin daughters, the Misses Carolyn Du Bois and Charlotte S. Cosby, at a tea at their home on Englewood ave. in Brookline. DINNER IS GIVEN FOR CHURCHILL

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—The Right Hon. Winston Churchill, who has been the recipient of much social attention since his arrival in Gotham from California and the Canadian Northwest, was the honored guest at a large dinner party given last evening by Mrs. William Randolph Hearst at 137 Riverside Drive.

For the event the Hearst apartment was handsomely decorated with warm-tinted autumn flowers and foliage, and the dinner was served at a long table in the tapestry room, an imposing salon in which also is placed the Hearst collection of armor.

Gold, yellow and brown formed the color scheme of the table decorations and the room was lighted entirely with tall church candles.

In the gallery, following dinner, a news reel, especially arranged under Mrs. Hearst's supervision and composed of scenes filmed some years ago, showing last night's guests at various events, was shown. Later there was dancing to the strains of Rudy Vallee and his orchestra and the Emil Coleman orchestra.

Among Mrs. Hearst's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor, William K. Vanderbilt, 2d, and his beautiful wife; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould, who are occupying their new apartment over in the Sutton place district of East 57th st; Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Stotesbury, the Baroness Munster, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Bogert, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brisbane, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Waterbury, the Benjamin Guinnesses, who have been at the Ambassador since their arrival from England with their daughter, Tanis; Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman de R. Whitehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Cosden, the James W. Gerards and Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon Moore.

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. John C. King, Herbert Hays and Swope and Mrs. Swope, the Allen Gouverneurs, Wellington Mrs. Wellman looking more English than ever; Mr. and Mrs. Conde Nast, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mendl, who are stopping with William Rhinelander Stewart, Jr., at his Park ave. apartment; the Princess Faucigny-Lucinge, Mr. Charles Cary Rumsey, Mrs. Robert Hays Smith of California, Mrs. William H. Crocker, Mrs. Cole Porter, Mrs. Dyer Blair, Marian Gray, daughter of Austen Gray, and Eleanor Barry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Barry.

In the distinguished assemblage I also noted Lord Feversham, Prince Serge Obolensky, who is married to the former Alice Muriel Astor; the Joseph Dureen, the Duke of Miranda, James Parker, George Leary Nathan, Charles Hayden, Will H. Hays, Maj. John Churchill, Lytle Hull and Preston Pope Sutton-white.

Elaborate Suits for Formal Afternoon Wear in Great Demand as Paris Turns Out Attractive Creations

(SKETCHED IN PARIS)

Rich Fabric, Lavish Trimmings Are Features

Paris Bureau of the Boston Evening American

PARIS, France, Oct. 19—All suits are trumps in fashion's game this season. As the definite styles for autumn are now launched, the suit emerges as one of the most important modes of the season. One very new note is the afternoon suit, that has not been of the mode for some years. Women are taking eagerly to the elaborate suit for formal afternoon wear, of rich fabric lavishly trimmed and furred, with blouse of satin.

For morning wear, suits of tweed and wool with jackets ranging from quite short to seven-eighths length, and skirts that permit ease of movement, are the thing. Such suits are plain as to detail but although their effect is somewhat severe, you may rest assured, that it is correct.

There is a wide divergence tween clothes intended for sports wear, and those intended for early morning town wear, the principal difference being that in sports clothes there is more latitude as to color and embellishment, and the cut is more casual than for clothes intended strictly for town wear.

(SKETCHED IN PARIS)

THE two suits shown today illustrate graphically the distinction in sports and walking suits that we have dwelt on in this fashion flash. The first is very obviously intended for urban wear. It is from Jane Regny, a couturiere who has been most successful with tweeds this season. This suit is of tweed in a dark brown shade. With it is worn a brown jersey jumper with beige appliqued dots and horizontal pinpicks, and the leather belt is dark brown. The flat wide inset at the front assures sufficient width of skirt for comfortable walking.

SPORT claims the second suit for its own. It is from the very distinguished collection of Paton, who has won wide acclaim for his sports clothes this season. It is of tweed tricto. The cardigan jacket and pleated skirt have a green and white diagonal stripe. The little jumper is of white tricot with bands, graduated in width of the green and white diagonal fabric. A green and white leather flower on the shoulder repeats the color combination, which, by the way, is very well liked this season, and the jaunty little beret is of green flannel.

Clubwomen Urged to Do Bit for Safe Roads

Every clubwoman in the State has been called upon by Governor Allen to help make the highways of the Commonwealth safe.

And every clubwoman who attended the opening luncheon of the Boston City Federation pledged her support to reduce the number of fatalities caused by the automobile.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles George A. Parker urged the women to "decry the crazy speed idea of the present-day and to help in the cause, if only to make her children cognizant of the dangers of the automobile.

"The automobile is an instrument of death when improperly handled," Capt. Parker stated.

Mrs. Carl L. Watson, president of the City Federation welcomed the hundreds of clubwomen of her Federation at the luncheon and paid tribute to the special guests.

Governor Allen outlined two matters pertinent to the future of the Commonwealth—the automobile situation being one of them. "We have talked and talked about the auto death rate. Now we must act," he said. "It isn't enough to impose a more rigid examination for the obtaining of a license. An accident in which a driver was involved resulting in death was caused by a man who had driven a car for 10 years.

"So you see there is no solution there. I appeal to you women. To every one of you to go home and talk to your children. Only when each individual of this Commonwealth realized the personal responsibility imposed upon him or her can any solution be reached and can the enormous and constantly mounting death rate on our highways be reduced.

PRISON IMPROVEMENTS

The governor then told of the improvements in the correction department of the Commonwealth, stating there a return to a former practice of pardon of life prisoners by the governor with the consent of his council was to be made.

"We want to instill in the hearts and minds of our state prisoners that there is a chance to resume a place in society when he conducts himself along lines of good behavior. I think this is good. I hope you support the idea.

"Very soon we will move a group of prisoners from the state prison to Norfolk, and then gradually transfer other prisoners until all the inmates of the state prison are removed. The wall of the new Norfolk prison is now completed and the dormitories have been started on. Without adopting a policy of dangerous paternalism our Commonwealth is doing much to promote the welfare of its people and to lift the burden of affliction from a group upon which it weighs most heavily.

Mayor Nichols extolled the confidence of the people of Boston in the city.

He also extolled the constructive work of the City Federation with its membership of 75 clubs and 30,000 club women. He asked the women to form parties and visit municipal institutions that they might see for themselves what is being done for the children of the city.

Capt. Parker stressed the highway death rate as beyond control if the women didn't take a hand.

"Control the attitudes," he urged. "Get people to know the conditions. To believe the horrors of automobile tragedies. Then get them personally to do the right thing."

Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Nichols were each presented with beautiful bouquets, and acknowledged the greetings of the clubwomen. Other guests included Elliott Wadsworth, Leverett Saltonstall, speaker of the House; Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, national committee woman from Massachusetts, who said that American women were the greatest influence for good in the country; Mrs. Esther Andrews of the Governor's Council; Mrs. Anna Tilling Issit, immigration commissioner for New England; Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall; Frederick Cook, secretary of State; Carl L. Schrader, Miss Marion Brazier, Mrs. Frederick Cook, Mrs. Bradbury Cushing, Mrs. M. H. Gulesian, who accompanied Camille Gerould, baritone, on the piano.

At the morning session 75 club presidents brought one-minute greetings from their groups. Under the direction of Mrs. Percival G. Fewers, membership chairman, the City Federation has launched a drive for associate members.

JEWISH TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

The activities begin with a theater party at the Morton Theater, Dorchester, under the auspices of the auxiliary, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. Mrs. Sarah Sachs, chairman, and Mrs. Rose Levenson, treasurer, are in charge. Plans are now under way for the annual ball to take place at the Elks Hotel some time in January, with Mrs. Erline Pollen and Mrs. Nathan Dome in charge.

A State-wide campaign will soon be instituted for the organization of auxiliaries that the anticipated goal—a sanatorium for Jewish tubercular men and women—may soon be realized. Mrs. Ida Cohen is supervising the organization work.

SWAMPSCOTT WOMAN'S CLUB

President Day will be observed on Monday, and promises to be both unusual and delightful. Mrs. Adele Hoss Lee will give a dramatic reading of the comedy, "The Unattainable." Music will also form a part of the afternoon program.

Special guests will include Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, first vice-president, Mrs. Fetherston, Mrs. Frank P. Bennett, Jr., second vice-president, and Mrs. J. Norman Jeffrey, ninth district director. Mrs. Alice B Fuller and Mrs. Annie L. Marke will be the hostesses. Mrs. Mabel H. Seavey is chairman of ushers. Mrs. Joseph H. Gough, president of the Club, will receive the visiting presidents and preside at the business session.

JEWISH JUNIORS

Rabbi Harry Levi of Temple Israel will be the principal speaker at the first meeting tomorrow night at 8 in the Temple Meeting House. The organization is a philanthropic one and is associated with the Federated Jewish Charities. It is the junior society of the Council of Jewish Women, of which Mrs. Hyman Fretman is the president.

BEDFORD WOMAN'S COMMUNITY CLUB

Rev. Lawrence Luther Barber of Nashua, N. H., will speak on "Life in the Colonial Home" at the meeting which is to be held in the Unitarian Church. Club singing under the direction of Mrs. John Jaffin will be part of the program. Miss Lucy W. Jones is the hostess. At 4 p. m. there will be a reception at Stearns mansion.

MONDAY MEETINGS

COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN

Holds its opening meeting of the season at Temple Israel Meeting House, Longwood ave., and Riverway, Brookline, at 2 p. m. After the business meeting an attractive program will be presented, centering about Emanuele Romano, who will demonstrate his subject "Drawing: The Basis of All Art." Mrs. Morris Roud, chairman of the art committee for the Council, will be the afternoon's hostess.

MYSTERY SHIP LEAVES HUB GASPING

By GEORGE W. HAMBLIN

What an airplane!
What a record!
What a pilot!
We are, of course, writing about the Travel Air "Mystery Ship" that hurtled across the Humble distance between Bicksville, L. I., N. Y., and Boston in the amazing time of 92½ minutes. Never has it been done before, and we don't think it will be done again in the near future, unless someone is flying a faster ship with a whale of a tail wind behind him.

The best previous time for airplanes between the two places was 3 hours held by Lieut. Robert L. O'Brien, State supervisor of aviation, and H. B. St. Clair, of Curtiss Wright. O'Brien's time of 55 minutes was hung up from the old Curtiss Field, now known as Roosevelt Field, Garden City, in an OX-5 motored Travel Air, making most of the trip in darkness, with a low ceiling and a high tail wind. St. Clair equalled this time last Monday evening in a 300-horsepower Cessna cabin monoplane, and his time was heralded as a new record, no one having cut back through the records to find O'Brien's more than amazing flight four years ago.

STUNTS FOR CROWD

Then there was Lieut. Curtiss H. Moffat, in a Curtiss FOX-5 Hawk, in September 1924, who flew down to Mitchel Field in 58 minutes, and back to Boston in 67 minutes.

When the Travel Air flashed across Boston, the roar of its motor brought people to every available window, to no avail. When the ross was first heard, it began that the ship was coming from somewhere, and by the time anyone could reach a window, the ship had passed.

Wood, who learned to fly in Boston, with the old Boston Airport Corp., some three years ago, was prevailed upon by Fred Ames, president of East Coast Aircraft Sales Corp., distributors of Travel Air planes, to go up again later on in the afternoon and satisfy the curiosity of the crowds of people who flocked to the airport to see what caused their windows to rattle and dishes to fall from the shelves.

With a grin of agreement, Eric climbed into the cockpit and buckled up into the afternoon sky. The ship, from take-off, climbs 5000 feet the first minute, and judging from the way Wood grasped himself a handful of altitude, it must go up three miles the first minute.

Then came a series of stunts that left the boys gasping. Wood dived for the field from a couple of thousand feet, pulled her up and after hurling up 2000 feet, topped it off with a slow barrel roll, still going up, and after completing the maneuver, continued to climb.

A series of perfect Immelmann turns, followed by two snap rolls in succession were the start of another long dive at the Airport, at the bottom of which the ship was hurtling along at a speed of between 275 and 290 miles an hour.

While Ernie was completing some of these dives, Crocker Snow, of Skyways, came in from Lowell with the racing Moth, a ship fast for type. He dived the field at 120 miles an hour, such speed making the wing stand around and laugh. Wood evidently saw the Moth trying to go somewhere, and came roaring back across the runways, tearing up the air with his speed, and hurting one's eardrums with the terrific roar of the motor. Then he cocked her over one one side and climbed to 2500 feet in that position, getting very little lift from his wings.

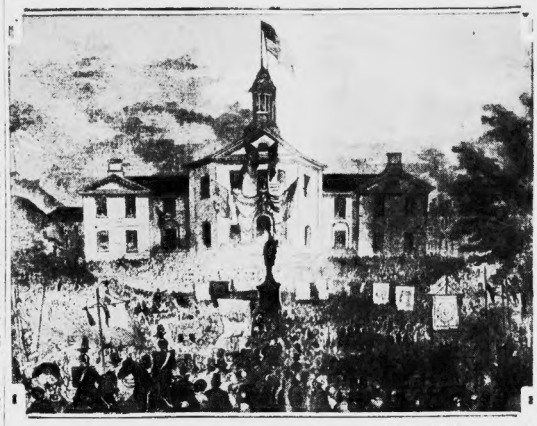
The funny part of the whole proceedings was the fact that the motor noise proceeded Wood when he was diving down with the flagged behind him when he dived into the wind. Fred Ames and Frank LeMan tried to fathom it out, but gave up after several attempts.

Give the boy a tail wind some day within the next week, and he'll make the distance between Long Island and Bean Town in less time than it takes to write this. He came up yesterday cruising at 1800 revolutions, with a three-quarter tail wind along Long Island, and a direct cross-wind from Providence on.

Albert to Announce Troth to Princess

Brussels, Oct. 10 (INS)—King Albert on next Thursday will officially announce the engagement of his daughter, Princess Marie Jose, to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, it was authoritatively stated today.

Old Boston in Pictures—No. 85



SEPTEMBER 17, 1856, was a gala day in Boston. The entire city turned out for the dedication of the statue of Benjamin Franklin, in Court sq. The ceremonies were featured by a procession, in which a conspicuous place was assigned to the printers of the city. Franklin's own hand press was carried in state, and copies of a poem always distributed on that occasion were passed along. The building in the picture is the old City Hall. Other scenes of Old Boston will appear in the Boston Evening American.

CAVEMAN MAKES TOOTHBRUSH FROM HIDE

By BURTON BRONNELL

EDISON WAITS IN FORD'S HOME

Detroit, Oct. 19 (AP)—Coming to receive a nation's tribute on the golden anniversary of his invention of the incandescent electric light, Thomas A. Edison arrived today. He traveled in the private car of Henry Ford.

The inventor went to the Ford estate, "Fair Lane" at Dearborn and planned to keep out of the public eye until Monday evening, when President Hoover will voice the nation's greeting in formally dedicating the new Edison Institute of Technology established by Ford in his early American village at Dearborn.

Light's own tribute to Edison will be a flood of modern illumination that will bathe the new Edison Institute during the ceremonies Monday night. To give the celebration's atmosphere of 1879 Edison's, the restored Menlo Park buildings and the reproduction of Independence hall, which is the principal unit of the early American village, will be illuminated only by tallow candles and oil lamps.

EGYPT FACES DRUG MENACE

Cairo, Oct. 19 (INS)—Drugs and dope spell Egypt's end.

This is the pessimistic verdict of Lewa T. W. Russell Pasha, commandant of the Cairo city police, who has issued a serious warning against the hold this vice has taken on natives of this ancient country.

Unless speedy and drastic action is soon taken to check the growing number of drug addicts, the official declares, the country "will sink into complete depravity and decadence."

He offers some very serious figures to support his statement. At the very least there are 100,000 addicts in Egypt today, he declares. Every family has at least one member who is a victim of this perilous vice.

Lindbergh Teaches Wife to Drive Auto

Mineola, N. Y., Oct. 19—Col. Lindbergh has taught his bride to run an automobile as well as an airplane. She has passed a test, driving up and down the street a couple of times under the eyes of an inspector after making a solo flight to Mineola from Roosevelt Field.

Dirty Shirt Betrays De Luxe Stowaway

New York, Oct. 19 (INS)—Cunard officials were somewhat abashed today over the report of Frederick Freeman of Kingston, N. M. who crossing the Atlantic on the Ile de Aquitania without ticket, but enjoyed all the comforts of a first-class passenger just the same.

After studying art in Paris for four years, Freeman decided to go back to the "states".

He spent his only three dollars by treating prosperous-looking voyagers to drinks at the beginning of the voyage so that he felt obligated later on. He ordered the best fare afforded in the smoking room and then slept away from the smoke room. He exchanged anecdotes to drink, played deck tennis and other sports and was invited to lie on the bridge.

His one and only short came after a day in bed. It became rather cold, rather, until skeptical passengers decided it was time to find out whether he could pay for the crossing. On the last day out he was discovered sleeping in the only locker on the hurricane deck big enough to hold him. He is being held on Ellis Island confident that someone will come to his aid and identify him as an American citizen.

MEDAL SOUGHT FOR DOG HERO

Twenty-months-old Eileen Depson of Center st., Holbrook owes her life to the heroic effort of Prince, the family's pet black collie, which pulled the babe from the tracks of the New Haven flyer and as a Cape Cod express train approached at high speed.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Depson, parents of the child, are today sending their congratulations and obtaining a medal or other reward for the dog's act.

The engineer of the train was certain the locomotive had struck the child, who was seated on the track, that he stopped the train and took the youngster aboard.

Unable to reach the child in time to remove her from the track, several railroad workers were thrilled as they saw Prince sink his teeth into the child's romper suit and pull her to safety. The dog had been aroused to the child's plight by the locomotive whistle.

Gen. Morris Schaff Dies in Marlboro

Gen. Morris Schaff, known the fighting commissioner of the Spanish-American war, a member of the electric light board, died at his home in Marlboro today. He was in his 80th year.

He was born in Kentucky in 1849 and was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1870. He served with the Union during the Civil War and won distinction on many battlefields.

Records Earthquake Lasting 3½ Hours

Washington, Oct. 19 (AP)—Severe earthquake shocks, lasting over one-half hours, approximately 4300 miles in a southerly direction from Washington, were reported today by Director Tordivel of Georgetown seismological observatory.

Tordivel said the disturbance began at 5:25 a. m. and reached their maximum at about 6:51.

Official of Stetson Hat Company Dies

A despatch was received in Boston today announcing the death in Paris of Henry Stetson, Jr., son of John B. Stetson, founder of the Stetson Hat Company. Mr. Stetson, who was 52 years old, was born in Philadelphia and had been in charge of the Stetson Company's interests in Europe for more than 20 years.

Mawson Off to Antarctic

Dog Saved Little Pal From Death

Eileen Depson of Holbrook was snatched from the New Haven track by Prince, the family pet collie, just as the Cape Cod express was approaching at high speed and when railroad workers did not have time to reach the girl. (Staff photo.)

GAY LONDON SENDS U. S. ITS BEST

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

INTERNATIONAL amenities being quite the right thing, Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld does not propose to stand aside and see all the glory fall upon mere presidents and premiers. When it comes to shaking a friendly hand across the sea, Mr. Ziegfeld may be depended upon to do a fairly good job on his own account.

* * *

WITH perhaps nothing more than a slap on the back and a jovial poke in the ribs, Mr. Ziegfeld and his press agent and impresario and Mr. Charles B. Cochran, most distinguished of London's producers, dropped into a benevolent world. These theatrical entrepreneurs set their minds upon a plan for the assistance of America in the matter of musical comedy and revue.

Nicholas Young

Hitherto, except for Miss Cochran's visit to the States in connection with her own show, London has been content to send us only its dramatic successes. Now comes the first real importation. From the Ziegfeld office you are informed that it is an important, and costly, specimen, an experiment in long-distance campaigning. For the entire English company and production has been moved over the restless Atlantic and dropped with much ceremony upon these hospitable shores. "Bitter Sweet," as you will view it at the Tremont, is totally and completely English, from principals to chorus, from proscenium to back wall. These things have been done before in modest manner, this time the adventure runs into big figures.

* * *

WHILE the American press contention is published off with the glamour of Ziegfeldian sponsorship, in which naturally there is more than a grain of magic, another leader of the forces which keep the drama moving in the right direction shares in the responsibility.

Arch Selwyn, who knows the theater as well as any of the experts in the Ziegfeld partnership, is the enterprising Mr. Cochran's London alter ego. Between Father Ziegfeld and Papa Selwyn, the latter's interest and support to share in the artistic rewards.

* * *

HOW Mr. Coward feels about it is not explained, but as author, composer and lyricist—and he is all three of them—always sits at the gate he probably regards the transatlantic expedition with hopeful contemplation. You may also expect that Mr. Coward, undoubtedly, is to play a part, which Mr. Coward undoubtedly is to play, in one way or something of a one-man theater. When you take inventory of his talents, you are bewildered, for single-handed he is author and actor, lyricist and composer, pianist and director. For all we know he may also do a bit of glazing and some sign painting on the side.

* * *

Mr. Coward's debut in London this coming season is a dashing example of Mr. Coward's ability to do many things many times. He is capable of still taking the stage at the Tremont on Tuesday.

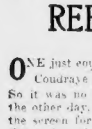
'NO TRESPASSING' THE REEL SIGN, REALLY

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

ONE just couldn't imagine the Marquise de la Falaise de la Coudraye going back on the films that made her famous. So it was no surprise when the gloriously glorified Gloria the other day, when tempted by lure of vast salary to desert the screen for the stage, just put her dainty foot down as flat as her high heels would permit, and said words to the effect of "nothing doing."

* * *

PICTURE fans of dear old Lunnon having acclaimed her first talkie "The Trespasser," as great, Miss Swanson now sees larger fame ahead for her in the movies. And so she is already planning her next film, also to be a talkie. Meanwhile, her initial venture before the chronicled camera is coming to Boston; it will be a show at



Winnie Lightner

Loew's State. Not many of us fans will miss it, friends who have seen and heard must have shaken all the big superlatives out of the dictionary, if we are to judge from the language in which they dress their praise. "Marvelous" and "magnificent" are but two of the many adjectives of that ilk that have been thrust upon our ears lately.

* * *

WHERE there are such fragrant bouquets, we can well imagine there is much excellence. It would have been at any time a good guess that Miss Swanson could talk well, but she does more than that in "The Trespasser"; she sings twice, one the exquisite Toselli Serenade, and the other a song titled "Love," and dedicated to her. She also gives lavish attention to her gowns, so flappers and others wishing to see the latest in wear on Gloria's shapely body will be saved a visit to the modiste's.

* * *

ONLY a few hours ago a dyed-in-to-wool patron of the picture palaces, hearing us mention that "The Gold Diggers of Broadway" would be back for another week on big time, vented his delight in the exclamation, "O boy!" He explained that he had seen it once, but he was sorry he hadn't gone twice. "Now I can do just that thing," he added.

* * *

THE Warners spared nothing in the making of this extravaganza. It has about everything a picture of its type should or could have. So the Fenway may be expected to to do a landoffice business with this from today through next Friday, and Manager Al Fowler can wear his happiest smile. We'd go miles to see, and hear all this fun, to drink in the humor of Winnie Lightner, assuredly one of the big hits of the year, individually considered; to rollick with this galaxy of Warner stars and simply let our sides shake themselves loose with laughter.

* * *

MUSIC, color, feminine pulchritude, all stand forth; talent is noteworthy. Highlights are the real sort. But just that one classic scene of mirth where Miss Lightner jumps from the banquet table full upon the mammoth tummy of Mr. Cram is deserving of the price of admission.

VOTE FEATURE IN CONTEST

IN conjunction with the showing of the Hollywood Local Follies at the Hollywood, Charlestown, all next week, a popularity contest is to be held to determine the most popular young body in the Charlestown district, to be known as Miss Charlestown. She is to be a member of the Follies cast which is composed of 60. The names of all entries can be secured at the Hollywood.

With every ticket purchased at the box office during the week 25 votes will be given. There will also be five vote coupons appearing in The Boston Evening American with the Hollywood Theater announcement in the Neighborhood Theater Directory each day of the week during the run of the Follies. These coupons may be clipped and taken to the theater and cast for your favorite, together with your theater votes. Results of the voting during each day o the contest will be printed in the Boston Evening American.

Four prizes will be offered to the four most popular young ladies. To the winner of the contest goes the title of Miss Charlestown. This fortunate young lady will receive a stage contract to appear in a leading musical comedy revue. She will also receive a complete apparel outfit. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the contest from the Hollywood stage on the final night of the contest, next Saturday.

'BARE FACTS' AT GAYETY

EDDIE DALEY brings his own enlivened version of "Bare Facts" to the Gayety next week, beginning with the usual Monday matinee. The show is one of the outstanding successes. It is said to excel all of Daley's previous productions. Joe Yule, Reggie White and Lena Daley are the featured players.

Reggie White, a dark-haired snappy dancer, has won many friends this season, while Lena Daley is not only a comedienne but also a singer and a dancer.

The company includes Syd Rogers, second comedian; Billy Harris, straight man; George Miller, juvenile; Ruth Peeler, Louis Miller, Flo Haley and Ray Bond who specializes in character impersonations. Hollub's Gayety jazz orchestra will offer some specialties.

A midnight show will be held next Wednesday, under the auspices of the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union.

Lone Boy Film Star's Only Audience

AL JOLSON has sung to many distinguished and attentive audiences but he has never had a more worshipful one than when he sang his new songs to Davey Lee during the filming of "Say It With Songs," now at the Scollay sq.

It comes to few children in history to have the world's foremost and highest-priced entertainer on his knees singing for their particular benefit but that is not what impressed Davey.

U. S. AIR CHIEF AIDS FILM

"FLIGHT," the all-talking aerial drama now at the New B. F. Keith's follows to the minutest detail the regulations and official conduct of the United States Aerial Marine Corps.

The government appointed Capt. Francis E. Pierce of the United States Flying Corps at San Diego, to supervise the making of the film. Pierce was primarily chosen because of his service in Nicaragua in 1928. Pierce seemed to be the ideal choice. His experience in Nicaragua coincide exactly with situations in the story. Pierce felt as though he was living over his Nicaraguan experience, as the technical details of "Flight," the difficulties encountered by the actors, director and working crew were not vastly different from the conditions he encountered in service.

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service
Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service Inc.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19—If "Bright Lights" turns out half as promising a screen play for Dorothy Mackaill as it sounds in the telling, Dot will at last get something over which she and First National need not quarrel. "Bright Lights," a backstage yarn of a burlesque chorine who becomes a night club queen, to be filmed in color, dialogue and music, etcetera, was written by Humphrey Pearson with just such an actress as Dorothy in mind.

WHAT do I mean? Dorothy made her first public appearance in New York in "Bright Lights," but only as Marjorie Crohn, the tale of how Dorothy walked into Ziegfeld's office and fascinated him with her English accent and her determination to become a Ziegfeld actress, is one of the most amusing stories ever told about our screen stars. Now, at the suggestion of Jack Warner, Dot will play the night lovely herself. Noticing the similarity between Miss Mackaill and effervescent Ruby Keeler, Jack Warner is putting in the script to make Ruby the star of "Bright Lights," originally intended for Dot. Warner is also negotiating with Dot to play the part of Ruby in "Show of Shows," the all-star revue which Ruby is making.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood celebrities: Sunshine Sammy Morrison, Mexican child star, dancing in the main lobby and being pointed out to visitors as the great cartoon. Wallace Beery walking up the street to the Montmartre cafe, followed by a large group of popular players. Jack Hunt with his newly acquired wife. Mrs. Arthur Hornblow in black with a group of friends. Anita Stewart Converse arriving with a few tables of friends that's all today. See you Monday.

A FEW weeks ago I ran across a pretty little girl called Ruth Chatterton was starred in "Come Out of the Kitchen," a stage play produced under the auspices of Henry Miller. She made such a tremendous success that almost over night she became known as one of the most popular of the younger comediennes of the stage. Paramount has brought Ruth "Out of the Kitchen" out of the cupboard. Yes, it was produced some years ago and was one of those silent flickers of only temporary interest. Nancy Carroll will play the part that Ruth Chatterton so glowingly portrayed on the stage and Sandy Gallaghet will play the leading man. Both Ruth and Sandy, looking mighty good to me, and the stage certainly does agree with him.

NO ONE can say longer as "wanting Mary of Big Fame." Betty Bronte has signed that distinguished role. Miss Terry's big success on the stage and in the silent version of the popular musical comedy, "Betty Lou," knocked them cold in New York, it is said. Now it's Betty Bronte. Returning to the subject of Miss Terry. She is out here in the movies and is doing very well. So well that she has been chosen to play opposite Ramon Novarro in "The House of Troy." "The House of Troy will be produced just as soon as Ramon has parted with his tonsils. Harry Beaumont has finished directed some of the best pictures of the year, will direct Mr. Novarro.

I DON'T know whether I can get enthusiastic over a sound picture or not. Frankly, I don't like it. Immediately after the

'JAZZ TIME' AT WALDRON'S

THE effervescent Kitty Madison, mainstay of Mutual Burlesque, brings her own edition of the most popular show, "Jazz Time Revue," to the Waldron boys Monday with the usual company but the girls look better than ever. Two of the principal players are Jack Hunt with his well-rounded comedian and Babe Abbott, flashy little blonde dancer. Harry Lefl, who is second comedian and an able foil for Hunt, and Gladys Lockwood, are three other stars who are expected to shine. Frankie Du Faine, straight man and singer, Gene Dwain, light comedian, and Dolly Ash, a fingerbreed little lady, while chasing Genevieve keeps her show moving from start to finish are others of the principals.

Interspersed throughout the performance will be the burlesque travesties on the current Broadway successes. Ann Seymour and Beth & Betty Dodge in "A Night in Venice" will be the first to be burlesqued. Other travesties will be "Step On It," "Two Old-time Favorites" and "Scandals," at the head of the company, George Nash and Helen Spencer. Mr. Nibbo is a comedian with a most refined manner, and his company has to add the variety that creates much mirth. Helen Spencer is a shining star. The production has musical numbers that have the right swing. Other burlesque favorites will be brought to view, including Juliette Belmont, Johnny O'Donnell and Lorrilla Love.

There will also be a continuous performance high-grade vaudeville and pictures. The Dolce Brothers, acrobats; Brown and Smith, and Mack and Mack are at will contribute. The picture will be "Woman Affronted," from the novel by Ethel M. Dell. The Hearst International News will be seen.

News of Boston Churches
Including Massachusetts and Greater Boston Federation of Churches

RELIGION AND DRAMA JOIN IN THE CHURCH

Few parish houses are now built that have no equipment for drama and pageantry. Religious leaders are finding that the play is the thing to catch the interest of youths. A recent questionnaire among young people of Malden brought out the fact that a desire for dramatics and plays as a church activity had second place in an answer to the question: "What activities would you suggest for your church?" Such testimony should cause spiritual leaders to think seriously, when they discuss how they will hold girls and boys.

"THE CHURCH AND DRAMA"

In an editorial in the Catholic Commonweal, Dr. Karl Young of Yale is reported as attributing the source of modern church drama to Easter plays. He writes: "Investigators now believe that the earliest plays arose from additions to the liturgical text of Easter Day. The number of published Easter plays has increased from about 200 to more than 400 in recent years. Others await publication, and some of these appear to throw new light on the whole subject."

CENTER METHODIST CHURCH SCHOOL GROWS

Phenomenal growth has been recorded by this Church School in Malden which averaged an attendance last year of 479 during the month of September, and this year averaged 704. Tomorrow will be rally day at this church with an in gathering from all quarters. The Rev. George E. Heath will preach on "Rallying Together." In the evening a pageant will be presented by the Church School, "Forward and Upward."

TERCENTENARY NIGHT

Already the great celebration of the Massachusetts Bay three hundredth birthday has begun. Churches are taking a lively interest in their share of the coming activities. At the Village Congregational Church, Dorchester, tomorrow evening, Mr. Albert R. Rogers of the tercentenary commission, will give an address on "The Tercentenary and the Church."

In the morning the Rev. George Driver will preach on "The Compelling Gospel."

SECOND UNITARIAN

The Rev. Eugene Rodman Shippen will preach tomorrow morning on "The Future of Protestantism." Dr. Shippen has very definite ideas on where Protestantism is tending and will speak plainly. This Church is one that has gained reputation for fine and colorful pageantry. Both Dr. and Mrs. Shippen believe in the dramatic form combined with music and special church lighting.

PARKER MEMORIAL

A fine arts movement is being initiated at the Bulfinch Place Church where a one-act play will be given every other Sunday evening this winter as part of the service. Tomorrow evening comes a play by Osgood, "City Walls and Open Plains," dealing with the life of Abraham, Sarah and Lot. A sermon, "The Forward Look," by the Rev. R. W. Jones, deals with the same theme as the play. Miss Lucille Vandiver, who has charge of dramatics at this church, has called a group of interested people for Thursday evening to launch the Fine Art Guild.

DR. ELIOT, COL. KNOX

Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, presided this week at an Indian Conference held at Lake Mohonk, where members of the Indian Commission, and many others interested in the care of the American Indians gathered. Colonel Frank Knox, publisher for the Hearst newspapers under Mr. Hearst is also a member of this commission.

CENTER CHURCH

"Do the radio and automobile add or detract from church attendance?" That is a question to come up before the Center Methodist church forum. Malden next West Side evening. Mrs. Edwin Freeland and Merton S. Lowe will meet for debate with Mrs. Alfred Avery and Dorsey S. King.

SECOND CHURCH DOC.

Col. Joseph Atkinson, head of the Salvation Army of New England will speak at the Second Church, Colman Square, Dorchester, tomorrow evening, on the work of the Army. He will have with him two cornetists. A service of song will precede the address of the colonel. In the morning the Rev. Vaughn Dabney will preach on "The Man Who Was an Iron Pillar."

Col. Atkinson

WINTER HILL BAPTIST

The Rev. H. Douglas Pierce is a great believer in religion through drama. His people during the winter give dramas and the following weeks they are transported to other churches where the same play is given free of charge. Mr. Pierce will preach tomorrow morning on Jacob, as one in a series of Old Testament heroes. In the evening he will have a service with the newly organized Sunday Knights, who will have an evening of song and music.

THOUGHT AND POWER

Would you learn the power of concentration, the secret of will strength, the place that faith has in character development? Mr. Paul Case, the son of a Congregational minister and a philosopher of modern thought will, for a series of twenty-five Sunday evenings develop his ideas, using for his text book the ancient lore in the book called Tarot. Mr. Case is a citizen of Melrose, where he lives with his talented wife and helper, Asta Fleming Case, who was one of the original Madonnas in the spectacle called the Miracle. The lectures are to be given in Eteinert Hall. All are welcome.

Immortality Topic at Copley Methodist

Two Bostonians have had their sermons numbered among the great sermons of the year in the annual book of sermons issued by Harper Brothers. Cardinal O'Connell for one and George W. Coleman of Ford Hall for another. Mr. Coleman is the only layman to be so honored in a book containing such people as Dr. Cadman, Bishops McConnell, Hughes and Manson; Maud Royden, Rev. F. Fort Newton, etc. Rev. William L. Sidger who has been asked to edit this important book will preach tomorrow morning on conclusions in connection with immortality as gained from these great orators of the pulpit.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL AT ST. COLEMAN

Cardinal O'Connell will officiate tomorrow at the dedication of the new St. Coleman's Roman Catholic Church, Dillon, in Brockton.

Feast of Tabernacles

Mr. Philip Satran and his family of 31 Summit ave., Winthrop, are devout Jews who are here seen celebrating the harvest, or Sukkoth, in a frail booth or wilderness tabernacle which he erected himself with the aid of his grandchildren. The roof is covered with corn stalks, tomato vines and beans, while on each side of the door are two immense sunflowers, all raised in his garden. He is seen blessing the candles and all fruits of the field and trees of the ground. On his left is his daughter, Mrs. Rose Levine, and on his right, Mrs. Annie Skiller. Mr. Satran is 73 years old. Each day for one week he will eat his meals in his tabernacle, bless the harvest and give thanks.

GOOD READING CAMPAIGN BY CATHOLICS

Organization of a parish literary society at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross was made the occasion for a general discussion of good and bad literature. At the gathering last Sunday the Rev. Francis L. Phelan, S. T. L., spoke emphatically about books, and magazines which he characterized as bad. Among other things he said:

"Today everybody reads. It is one luxury that all can enjoy. There never was so much worthless matter being published—some of it positively harmful—and there never were so many people reading. There is nothing that contributes more effectively to the moulding of character than the books and the magazines and the papers read. They are bound to leave their effect for good or evil.

"The human soul is directly influenced by reading and is extremely sensitive to the good and bad impressions arising therefrom. It is of the utmost importance therefore that we read nothing but the best. A guiding voice as to the character of the books and magazines and papers of today is a crying need."

ARCHDIOCESE HAS MISSION SUNDAY

Tomorrow throughout the Catholic world is Mission Sunday, when the interests of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith are given special emphasis. This is the eighteenth such Sunday, inaugurated by Cardinal O'Connell, first for the Boston diocese, and then in 1927 it was given the stamp of universality.

On the second last Sunday of October, the day is now observed throughout the whole world, and Catholics in every land and clime are urged to turn their thoughts upon the great missionary life of their church.

In every parish there is a unit functioning under the direction of one of the local priests. Each unit remits its monthly returns to the diocesan office, whence a monthly report goes out by His Eminence.

The active workers, who are the very foundation of the parish branches are known as promoters. They collect the dues from their bands of members and meet monthly at the time appointed by the parish director.

Einstein Leads to Atheism, Says Priest

In a lecture by Fr. Charles F. Dippermann, S. J., before the College of Philosophy at Manila he criticized Einstein and referred to Cardinal O'Connell. He referred to His Eminence's opinion that Einsteinism leads to atheism. Touching upon Einstein's declaration that he believed in the "God of Spinoza," the Ateneo professed pointed out that "if reading I knew what Spinoza's God is, no one would dispute Cardinal O'Connell's declaration. Spinoza was a pantheist and all know just what a pantheist's God is."

Fr. Gallagher on "Riddle of Russia"

The first of a series of lectures for the benefit of the Scholarship Fund will be held at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, 785 Centre st., Newton, tomorrow, at 3 o'clock.

Rev. Father Louis J. Gallagher, S. J., Papal Delegate General of the English Province, will speak on "Solving the Riddle of Russia."

Dr. Silver to Open Forum Tomorrow

The Ford Hall Forum begins the 22d season tomorrow with Dr. Abba Hillel Silver as speaker. His subject will be: "The Faith of an Untired Liberal." Doors open at 7 p. m.

COMMUNITY CHURCH

"Is Heresy Desirable?" Charles C. Little, former president of Michigan University will talk on this theme at Symphony Hall tomorrow. He will be open for questions after his address.

FINE POINTS OF MODERN HOMES

By BETTY BONNELL

Betty Bonnell

WALL paper must be on the minds of many a housewife who wants to make her home just as modern and cheerful as possible. For so many inquiries came to my desk since the first article I wrote the other day about this newest trend toward better interior designing that I am almost sure I put upon a subject of wide interest.

My last article will permit discussion of actual colors in wall paper. So I am taking this opportunity to say a word or two about the value and results achieved by proper selection and balancing of tones.

If your rooms are to look really bright and cheerful then the new paper you choose must be liberal in its use of oranges, yellows, cream and tans. Gold and nile green also are necessaries of warmth and light, exceptionally good for rooms that haven't much exposure to the sun. On the other hand, blue and even grays, to say nothing of pink, are lovely for southerly exposed rooms to counteract glaring sunlight.

I warn you to keep clear of striking colors in your bedrooms, where an atmosphere of calm and restfulness is so essential. Quieter tones and delicate patterns are much more desirable. Put these gayer colors in the breakfast room, play room and sun porch and even in the dining room, if you wish.

Adorable effects may be achieved with real art if it is confined to the smaller elements in the pattern, thus allowing such counteracting colors as gray and aged green to play their part in the scheme.

The greatest fun will come in planning the play room for the children. Startling ideas have been put into wall paper for the new school of design creators. Legend and fairy tale were spread their fanciful stories from one end of the room to the other and give the children a fairyland to play away their after-school hours in. All the colors used are simply a frolic.

By all means keep your draperies in mind when ordering the wall paper. Conflicting color schemes cause no end of regret. Don't use the same color scheme in both either. Harmonizing tones in paper and wash are best for that feeling of balance and leisure.

All of which goes to prove that wall paper is a means of expressing your own individuality. Remember, once it is on, you can't move it around or rearrange it like furniture. So be about as careful and calculating as you can, before you say "yes" about any one design.

PROPERLY DESIGNED HOUSE FOR NARROW LOT

By National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc.

THE good qualities of this house, A-164, show what can be done on a narrow lot when the house is properly designed.

The village green influence was essentially in mind when planning the house, with the narrow lot in mind a necessity.

The arrangement of the floor plans is admirable and appeals to the home wife; the garage is complete, compact and livable and the attached garage is an added feature as is also the large wardrobe space over it.

A cellar extends under the main portion of the house.

The treatment of the chimney, the brick front of the front and the entrance door, are held much to the artistic effect, and but little more than

Cost about $11,500

COMPLETE working plans and specifications of the house illustrated above may be obtained for a nominal cost from the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc. Any technical questions regarding this house will be answered without cost or obligation. Address the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc., Real Estate Dept., Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. Refer to House A-164.

Province Passes Real Estate Act

At the most recent session of the Alberta, Canada, provincial parliament a law requiring license for real estate brokers and salesmen was passed and now is in effect.

This is the second instance of real estate license legislation in Canada. In 1920 British Columbia passed a license law which has been operating ever since in the province. In general the British Columbia act follows the principles of real estate license law legislation as recommended by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Real estate values are growing steadily in Boston. If you ever intend to own your own home, see the home investments offered today in the Classified Ads.

Causes of Home Fires Outlined

Firefighters and insurance experts agree that three principal causes contribute to the nation's heavy fire loss—defective flues, according to the National Institute of Thermology of Holland, Mich. These three causes are heating equipment not up to date, faulty installation and poor maintenance and operation.

"The average person who operates a heating plant should have it inspected by persons of known standing and any defect reported should be corrected at once," says National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"Poor maintenance and operation are responsible for a large percentage of these fires.

First Mortgage Rates Increase

The average rate of interest on first mortgages for the United States as a whole increased 0.04 per cent from July, 1928 to July, 1929, whereas the average rate on conventional loans increased 0.19 per cent, while the rate of interest on second mortgages for the United States as a whole remained stationary, according to a report received by the National Association of Real Estate Boards from 88 executive councillors of its Mortgage and Finance Division.

Mortgage councillors in 139 cities were appointed some months ago by the Association's Mortgage and Finance Division to keep the Association informed as to mortgage conditions in various localities.

NEW ENGLAND MEN COTTON LEADERS

BY FRANK H. MEADON
Financial Editor

Cotton-Textile Institute election shows New England men again among the nation's leaders in the industry. President Walker D. Hines was re-elected and Edward Henry E. Lipptt of Providence, vice president. Three of the members of the executive committee are New Englanders. They are I

Henry F. Lippitt Robert Amory

Whitney Bowen of Fall River, R. H. I. Goddard of Providence and G. T. Thompson of Atlanta.

New England men re-elected to the executive committee of the cotton men are Charles F. Broughton of New Bedford, A. E. Colby of Boston, and Russell H. Leonard of Boston. Mr. Hines and Senator Lippitt are members ex-officio.

* * *

Very pronounced improvement in the opportunities for the industry to deal with its problems in an effective way was cited by Mr. Hines in his review of his two and one-half years presidency of the institute. Mr. Hines stated that, while the industry's fundamental difficulties are numerous and serious, an optimistic view of the present conditions is warranted by the attention which is now giving to these important questions. Progress that has already been made in correcting the tendency to overproduce indicates that still more can and must be accomplished as the mills more and more adjust their production to demand and as consumption, for the purpose of maintain a proper relation to costs of production, is declared.

This week's Listed Business Report (Roger's) briefly analyses the current business as follows:

FAVORABLE FACTORS

Car Loadings—Continue to be one of the most consistently favorable items in the business situation.

Steel—Strengthening demand indicated by increase of 244,370 tons in unfilled orders of U. S. Steel Corp.

Money—Definite easing of both call and time rates indicates relieved tension on credit structure.

Cotton Consumption—Consumption for September were 478,000 bales or 125 per cent. and shipments 107 p. c. of actual output.

UNFAVORABLE FACTORS

Automobile — Output running about 16 per cent under that of corresponding period of 1928.

Trade—Although production declining, inventories and dealers' stocks are still heavy.

The statement would be reassuring to stockholders if it were that no public utility merger plans have been announced. The fact is, however, that a number are said to have gone by the board. One specific announcement is expected in the following New York wire: "The Public Utility Holding Corp. of America has withdrawn its application of exchange for Southern California Edison Co. common stock, Pacific Lighting Corp. common stock, Pacific Gas & Electric Corp. common stock and National Fuel Gas Co. common stock. There was no announcement by officers of the corporation as to the reason for the withdrawal of the offer."

Frank W. Moffet, vice-president of General Railway Signal Co., has accepted directorship of Railroad Shares Corp. Raimond W. Pitcairn, Iowa, and Charles E. Hutton and Joseph F. Dowdall associated with F. H. Keech & Co., are also new members of the advisory committee of Railroad Shares Corp. The portfolio of Railroad Shares Corp. now includes 51 securities of the leading railroads of the country and 10 equipment companies.

Ralph A. Powers has been elected executive vice-president of Louis H. Carter vice-president in charge of manufacturing of the American Agricultural Chemical Co. Mr. Powers was formerly president of the Robertson Paper Box Co. Montville, Conn. Mr. Carter has been connected with The American Agricultural Chemical Co. since 1916 and was general superintendent in charge of manufacturing since 1925.

It is understood that the block of Maine Central Railroad common stock which was purchased recently from Maine interests in a private transaction amounted to 17,500 shares at 500 a share, involving $1,962,000. Some time ago a Boston house negotiated for a substantial block of Maine Central, but considered the price asked was too high. There is considerable mystery as to the identity of the present purchaser, although it is understood to have been a New York brokerage concern.

LATVIAN MERCHANT MARINE

With the acquisition of a 2785-ton steamer by the Latvian Shipping Company, "Gaida," Riga, the total number of ships in the Latvian Merchant Marine is now 100 ships of 165,924 gross tons, according to a report from Trade Commissioner F. C. Sommer, Riga, Latvia, to the Department of Commerce. During the current year, 17 vessels of 20,000 net tons have been acquired by Latvian companies.

TRADE WITH CANADA

Trade between New Zealand and Canada has grown rapidly in recent years, exports from New Zealand to Canada in 1928 reaching the value of £2,469,150, passing the two million mark for the first time, while imports from Canada amounted to £3,258,828, a figure which has been exceeded only three times, according to a report from Assistant Trade Commissioner Chas. F. Kunkel, Wellington, to the Department of Commerce.

RADIO SALES ANALYZED

Approximately 40.5 percent of the $14,172,740 volume of retail radio business reported to the Department of Commerce by 6,031 dealers for the second quarter of 1929 was transacted by dealers who indicated their primary source of revenue was derived from the sales of radio equipment, while the remaining portion of the business was distributed through a diverse assortment of merchandising outlets, according to an analysis of the statistics by the Electric Equipment Division.

NEW ELECTRIC PLANT

The electric lighting system of Fiji's second largest town, Levuka, has been appreciably improved by the installation of a new plant, comprising a full Diesel two-cylinder vertical engine, direct coupled to an electrical generator which will eliminate the various troubles experienced by belt transmission on the old plant, according to a report from Vice Consul W. T. Costello, Suva, Fiji Islands, made public by the Department of Commerce.

SPAIN AIDS FILMS

After a prolonged study of the hearings of the committee appointed early in the year to consider methods of protecting the Spanish motion picture industry, it is reported that the government has under consideration a project to encourage national production through a cash fund to be constituted by establishing an import tax film rental tax, and a tax on admissions according to a report from Commercial Attache Chas. A. Livengood, Madrid.

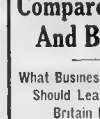
How Selfridge Compares U.S. And Britain

What Business Men Here Should Learn; What Britain Needs

By B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—H Gordon Selfridge who started as a boy in Marshall Fields basement and rose to a partnership is here from London where he has built up the foremost department store in Britain, giving employment, with his other activities, to 15,000 workers. Twenty-three years' residence in Britain has fitted this progressive, brainy, enterprising merchant to compare life there with life here and to see how the business men of each country could benefit by adopting the best the other country offers.



B. C. Forbes

In a chat with the writer, Mr Selfridge made interesting, refreshing, illuminating observations

• • •

Most American business men clutter themselves up with too much work they should delegate to others, this experienced authority declares. Although Mr Selfridge personally directs the management of the great London store as well as a number of provincial stores, he remarked

"I never let myself become too busy. I so handle my affairs that I see people the instant they come to my office. I surround myself with no barriers: I am always accessible to anybody in my organization and to anybody else who has any occasion to want to see me. Channel swimmers, royalty, transatlantic flyer statesmen, writers and actresses, notable American visitors all drop in—I have a wonderful collection of signatures exhibited in my office"

• • •

Mr. Selfridge went on: "The United States is fortunate in not being retarded by traditions by feudal ideas. America's virility is magnificent. There is here a new civilization pulsating with energy, lavishly enriched by natural resources.

"But you hurry and rush too much. Haste, the product of youth and enthusiasm is not always desirable. Too many American business men never seem able to catch their breath. They are forever feverishly active, striving desperately to clear their feet.

"The British don't rush to work early in the morning, bolt their lunch and scamper off at break neck speed to keep some evening engagement. They have learned poise which is lacking here. Life there contains more dignity and exhilaration, their art of living is more rational, more beautiful more artistic. Nobody in Britain is overexcited. Nobody works at feverish pace."

• • •

After a pause Mr Selfridge went on: "If Britain would only adopt some of America's modernized business methods, some of its scientific industrial management, it would make more progress than regaining maximum prosperity Britain industry and British business unquestionably could and should learn something useful from America.

"I make a point of revisiting this country periodically because I learn something new on each trip. It would be helpful if many leaders of British industry and business would come over and see how things are done here. Of course the British will pull through—they are pulling through. They have a solidity of character which wins one's admiration. They have infinite tenacity of purpose. Adversity doesn't destroy their spirit, doesn't kill their faith. They doggedly, resolutely, imperturbably carry on. You can't but respect and admire them.

• • •

"What a happy blend, what a happy civilization, would a mixture of the best qualities of the two nations make! Britain could profitably adopt a measure of American initiative and energy and resourcefulness and progressiveness and enthusiasm. America could equally profitably adopt a large measure of Britain's poise and dignity and imperturbability.

"In other words, if the Motherland could imbibe and apply some of the youthful characteristics of this dynamic young nation, and if this young nation could adopt some of the finer qualities, age and experience and maturity have given the Motherland, the combination would be delightful.

• • •

"And it is coming. I know that Britain is beginning to realize the wisdom of adopting certain American methods which have proved successful. And the growth and spread of wealth here will doubtless bring improvement in the art of living, especially in the wise creation and utilization of leisure."

• • •

Mr. Selfridge sees nothing but further growth looming ahead here. Only, he declares that something drastic must be done in cities to prevent traffic congestion from reaching the point of disastrous chaos. Here, he emphasizes, is a problem worthy of America's genius and ingenuity.

DOLLAR TRADE VOLUME UP FOR WEEK

Business transactions during the week ended Oct. 12, as indicated by the volume of check payments, were greater than in the corresponding week of 1928, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce.

Steel plant activity showed no change from the previous week but was somewhat slower than in the corresponding week of last year. The output of bituminous coal during the latest reported week showed a decline from the preceding week but was greater than a year ago.

Crude petroleum production showed a further recession from the previous week but was still larger than in the same period of last year. Receipts of cotton into sight were greater than a year ago. Cattle receipts at primary markets, however, showed a decline from a year ago but hog receipts were greater than in the same period of last year.

Distribution of commodities by rail, as indicated by date on freight car loadings covering the latest reported week, continued to reflect gains over the corresponding period of last year.

The general level of wholesale prices showed no change from the previous week but was about 5 per cent lower than at this time a year ago. Prices for iron and steel averaged lower than in the previous week but were higher than a year ago.

Cotton prices averaged lower than in the preceding week or the same week last year. Copper prices showed no change from the preceding week but were higher than a year ago. Bank loans and discounts showed a contraction from the preceding week but were greater than a year ago.

Interest rates on both time and call funds averaged lower than in the previous week, while call-loan rates, for the first time in months, averaged lower than in the corresponding period of the previous year. Stock prices showed a gain as compared with both the preceding week and the same period of last year. Bond prices averaged higher than in the preceding week but were still substantially below a year ago.

Business failures were less numerous than in the previous week but showed a gain over last year.

MARKET VIEWS OF BROKERS

Hornblower & Weeks—The latest announcement by the Massachusetts Public Utility Commission issued about one half hour before the close yesterday, brought in a fresh wave of selling which took the whole market with it, just as the trading liquidation seemed to have worked up. However, coming as it did, after a period of correction, we believe it will logically be followed by the technical rally which it postponed. We would use this strength to liquidate holdings in the general market and continue to limit constructive activity to moderate commitments in the chemicals, coming oil stocks and those rails whose earnings have been most satisfactory.

Hayden, Stone & Co.—It is one thing to expect a continuation of sound and profitable business; it is another quite common thing to expect a continuation of a rise in market prices. The latter have preceded such a belief that it is only natural that there should be some questioning, and a revaluation more in accordance with earnings. Even with good business conditions no one could reasonably expect in the next few years any such general uplift from this level as has taken place in the past few years. Where in individual instances earnings warrant higher valuations, we see no reason to believe that they will not be maintained.

Gurnett & Co.—We do not think that conditions favor the resuming of the advance or even offer any assurance against considerably lower prices. At least in public utility stocks the selling does not appear to have run its course. We are inclined to think that a reaction is taking place in sugar stocks under cover of the current general liquidation.

R. S. Dickson & Co.—The severity of yesterday's decline will undoubtedly bring a substantial amount of forced liquidation into the market this morning. Some short covering may thereafter be in order, but a resumption of major proportions will probably not become evident until signs are apparent that a more powerful support than any witnessed over the past week has made its appearance.

Livingston & Co.—We have probably already passed through the worst phase of the liquidation movement and instead of looking at this late day for opportunities on the short side it would be wiser to keep alert for buying opportunities on further reactions.

Canadian Bank Will Distribute "Extra"

Canadian Bank of Commerce declared an extra dividend of $1 and a regular quarterly dividend of $3, both payable December 2.

Portland Cement Co.

Alpha Portland Cement Co.'s net income for the 12 months ended September 30 is equal, after preferred dividends, to $2.50 a share on the 711,000 shares of common.

POLO LINEUP UNSETTLED

New York (AP)—The polo season has closed without definitely settling the line-up of America's "Big Four" for the 1930 international cup challenge matches with England. Again the main problem as it was last year, revolves around selecting a reliable No. 1 man but other positions also are unsettled.

W. Averell Harriman, who won the No. 1 post from Stephen Sanford in 1925, has been a disappointment this year. Young E. T. Gerry Jr., of Harvard and the Old Aiken junior champions, is a promising forward, but he needs more seasoning. At times Harold E. Talbott Jr., the Aspen veteran, played brilliantly at No. 1. Probably the best equipped player for this important post, however, is Eric Pedley, the stalwart Californian, who has a natural aptitude for it, though he finished the season playing No. 3.

Winston Guest played back on the "Big Four" last year, but he is more brilliant at No. 2, where he has freer play for his daring horsemanship and hard hitting. Young Earl Hopping, who got into the 1928 lineup at No. 2 against the Argentines, has had an erratic year. Tommy Hitchcock has started every big international series since 1921 at the roving No. 2 position, but he has been concentrating on the semi-defensive No. 3 job. The probability is that the strongest American lineup would be Pedley, Hopping, Hitchcock and Guest, but the rapid development of other players may upset this prospect.

B. C. High Wins

Boston College high moved a step closer to the local high school gridiron championship by defeating Boston Latin, 21 to 0, at Fenway Park.

Big Crowd to Watch Bulldogs Tomorrow

THE Boston Bulldogs must be at the top of their fine game today tomorrow afternoon at Braves Field when they face the Orange, N. J., pro grid team. The game, scheduled to start at 2:15 should attract a big crowd.

Those football fans who saw the battle between the Bulldogs and the Tranglers last Sunday at the Wigwam are enthusiastic about the pro brand of football.

The game carries ... as much speed as the ... League type and a lot more class and ... Fans who like the ... of football are given ... of the pro game.

Ox Wentworth great back a few years ago at New Hampshire, is the star of the Bulldog backfield. He can kick, pass ... with the ball and interfere.

With Wentworth are Tony Latone, young man from Pennsylvania, Frank Stockton, brilliant forward passer; Al Miller, ex-Harvard back, Johnny Ernst, All-American pilot at Lafayette, is the first string quarterback of the club.

Ralph Marston, former Malden high, Clark school, and B. U. field general, is the relief quarterback of the team. Marston is very fast and has had a lot of experience in the berth.

Capt. George Kenneally and Red Maloney, former Dartmouth end, are the wingmen. Each is fast and each is a sure pass receiver, which makes the aerial attack of the Bulldogs a constant threat.

The line of the Bulldogs averages more than 190 pounds, and is fast and competent.

A's Victory Gives A. L. Sixteenth Flag

The impressive victory of the Philadelphia Athletics over the Chicago Cubs, four games to one, made the 16th time the American League has triumphed in the World Series. The National League has won 10 times. Incidentally, the junior league clubs have won 12 out of the last 13 games played in the annual classic. When the Cubs grabbed the third game of the series, it was the first victory scored by a National League team since 1926.

Roller Skate Speed Race at Garden

A new two-mile speed record may be accomplished by Roland Coni who now holds several world records on roller skates, at the Boston Garden tonight.

Coni will race Joseph Draper of Revere, Frank Normand of Jamaica Plain and Carl Russo of Revere. Roller skating is due for a big comeback in New England judging from the large crowds enjoying the sport both afternoon and evening.

BUSH CURE FOR DIAMOND ILLS

Chicago (AP)—It seems to be a good idea to summon Dr. Owen J. (Donie) Bush for the treatment of baseball ills or difficulties.

Dr. Bush's latest case is the White Sox, one of the most severe features of which is The Great Shires. Lena Blackburne, who had charge of the Sox for the last year and a half, apparently could do nothing to arrest the malignancy or the wallop of Shires. Blackburne lost two decisions to his first baseman, but Bush is probably confident he can cure the situation.

Donie was brought up in the rough and tough school of baseball. He learned how to handle himself with the old Tigers in the days when the day was considered lost that did not end up in a few playful punchfests in the clubhouse. The Great Shires, if he stays with the Sox, and he probably will, will be advised to think not twice but three or four times before he makes a false move toward Donie Bush.

Bush stepped into the manager's job at Pittsburgh three years ago after the Pirates had staged an open rebellion. He had a trouble-some crew to handle but won a pennant in 1927 and kept the team up in the race in spite of injuries and bad breaks during the next two seasons.

Now Donie faces the task of trying to rebuild or revive the Sox machine after it has gone through just ten years of misfortune. Somehow or other, no leader, no amount of money has succeeded in putting the Sox back in the pennant picture since the memorable 1919 scandal. Kid Gleason gave up the job after four years. Frank Chance's health failed him as he was about to take over the management in 1924 and Johnny Evers failed to keep the club out of the cellar.

STAR ATHLETES FINE STUDENTS

Hamilton, N. Y.—The popular notion that college athletic stars attain their eminence on the sports field at the expense of their classroom duties is exploded by Dr. F. C. Ewart, professor in Romantic languages at Colgate University, writing for the current issue of the Colgate Alumni News.

Dr. Ewart went back 30 years in a survey of the question and his findings reveal that one in every six of the Phi Beta Kappas graduated from Colgate in that time was a star athlete. The Phi Beta Kappas total 416 and 68 of those were lettermen in major sports. Twenty-seven were team captains. Fifteen of the 68 earned letters in two sports, four in three branches and one made the grade in four. Football, track and basketball have each produced six Phi Beta Kappa captains.

The first football team ever organized at Colgate, the 1899 eleven, listed no less than eight Phi Beta Kappas among the 11 first-string ends. Six of these who are still living are listed with their present occupation as follows:

John Bernard Ekely, '91, head of department of chemistry, University of Colorado.

Thomas J. Ryan, '93, vice-president Calumet Baking Company, Chicago.

Preston Hopkins Smith, '93, superintendent of schools, Bayonne, N. J.

Adna Wood Risley, '94, professor of history, New York State College for Teachers, Albany.

John Hopkins Leete, '94, librarian, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Harry Emory Newell, '91, attorney, Syracuse.

Walter Runge, a famous halfback of 1906, was the four-letter Phi Beta Kappa. He made the grade in football, basketball, track and baseball and captained the gridiron and court squads.

Ellery Huntington, Jr., All-American quarterback in 1913, was a three-letter crack, winning the awards in basketball and track in addition to football. In the same class and an end on the same team that Huntington piloted to a sensational 16 to 6 victory over Yale was Tom Sullivan, another Phi Beta Kappa, who is now head football and baseball coach at St Lawrence University and a successful attorney in Canton, N. Y.

Perry Leary, who later coached Hamilton College in football, won the high scholastic ranking in 1914. He was a crack end at Colgate. The latest contribution to the list was made last June, when Francis Walsh, varsity basketball player for three years, was graduated.

MEDFORD TO PLAY STRONG OPPONENT

THERE will be few unbeaten schoolboy elevens in the Bay State after today's games since most of those aggregations having clean records are facing opponents who likewise have not lost a game.

Medford high, with Capt. Lawrence Spellman leading its attack, will descend on Haverhill where the home team is prepared to put up a stiff battle. This game shapes up as Medford's hardest test of the season and the fact that Jim Mansfield, present mentor at Haverhill, coached Medford teams for several years prior to his coming to Haverhill lends an added tinge of color to the melee.

Goodman and Bakanosky are Haverhill's ball carriers whose work will cheer or disappoint fans in the upstate city today. A close score, with Medford on top, is expected.

Lynn English and Salem will furnish the most spectacular fray of the afternoon at Bertram field. Stem, Genawicz and Gould, English backs who starred last year, are continuing their usual fine brand of football. Reid and Heffernan are the outstanding backs on the Salem eleven. Pozzency and Gracyk are valuable men in the Salem line. Salem is a slight favorite.

HARD GAME FOR WALTHAM

Waltham, still undefeated, opposed a strong Fitchburg outfit at the latter city. Since Bill Gerrie is unable to play at fullback for the Watch City team, a shift has been made in the backfield. Grieg is at quarter, Pendergast at left field, Krol at right half and Miele at full.

Pendergast is the most elusive back in the suburbs and is sure to worry Fitchburg today. Allen, Secino and Hooper will strive to bring victory to the home team. Waltham is picked to win.

Rindge and Newburyport, both having rugged elevens, will try each other out at Newburyport. Boyle, Gilgun and Saransky have never failed Coach Murphy yet and should come through today. Each youth in this trio knows backfield play from all angles. The Rindge line is almost unbreakable. The score will be close with Rindge just a little bit better than its rival.

Brockton has not had an easy season thus far and today's engagement with Lynn Classical will be just another hard game for the Red cohorts.

Carlyn, at quarter for Classical, has had the benefit of a year's experience on the striped fields. Brockton's line is stronger than that of the visitors. Pileski and Hymoff are a pair of good running backs whose work should be enough to eke out a win for Brockton today.

ROGERS AT MALDEN

Rogers high of Rhode Island will do its best to shatter the unbeaten record of Malden high at Pearl St Stadium this afternoon. The home team is relying on Sam Wishnia and John O'Connor to run away with the affair. The Blue and Gold proved that its line could bear the shocks of hard-hitting backs when it tilt with Melrose. Rogers high proved because it played and defeated Salem Trade last Saturday and is out to show that it is a big, class team that can make the best of Bay State elevens hurry to catch up with it.

Christner Punches Way to Victory Over Schaaf

GAGNON WINS OVER M'TIGUE IN ROUND

By JACK CONWAY

K O CHRISTNER that old guy who came up out of the tire pits of Akron to enter the fight game at the age of 32, isn't ready to put on his slippers and take a seat by the fireplace yet awhile.

The kayo person has had a couple of birthdays since he started flinging punches around for a living, but he hasn't gotten old Pop Time a punch.

Ernie Schaaf, a youth of 21 made his original appearance in a 10-round bout at the Boston Garden last night when the final score had been duly scored the king of the tire pits got the duke.

It wasn't a fancy fight. It was a rough affair with the Akron entry at times shooting his left low and also using his head as an offensive weapon. But then one must pardon a few rough ups for breaking a few of the rules. Perhaps this was due to the fact Ernie got in the first fight game so late in life that he didn't have time to read all of the rules connected with the so-called manly art.

Christner doesn't fight like an amateur does he? His body bends both quite high and keeps them in motion. Your guess is as good as anybody else's as to when the old guy is going to let the wallop breeze.

You can bet all you have that when Kayo clicks he hurts. Pete Sharkey wasn't just trying to kid Jimmy Mitchell when he declared Christner turned his head with one of his right hand noses in their New York fracas. The only thing about Sharkey is that he likes those fellows who have eyes to his head. Call it an admiration for a good socker.

SCHAAF'S left eye was closed as tight as a drum during the last two rounds. Chopping right hand counts had done the damage. Even with this handicap Ernie made a dashing finish. Schaaf is what you call a good guy and game and made no alibis when he lost.

Christner and Schaaf will clash in the Boston Garden Arena, Feb. 21, in a 15-round battle for the world's championship. Tex Rickard, who has the fight in charge, has announced that the winner will receive a purse of $50,000 and the loser $25,000.

Golf Success Depends on Concentration

By HORTON SMITH

U. S. Ryder Cup Team and Noted Professional, Champion

CONFIDENCE, or rather lack of confidence, in golf is one of those elusive things which take a great deal of explaining.

One day a player will go out and accurately he has driven from the first tee he realizes that he is going to play well. He becomes imbued with a sense of exaltation in his own ability, and forthwith proceeds to hit every shot just exactly as he desires.

Another day he will go out and exactly the reverse will be the case. He will miss his first tee shot, and the thought will flash across his mind: "Things are not going to go well with me today." The thought is a precursor of a state of mind which will lead to later disasters. His confidence is sapped just as the result of one bad shot.

And if this be true of shots up to the hole, it is even more true of shots on the green. I know of many golfers who estimate their ability to putt for the rest of the day entirely on the fate of their initial effort on the first green. If they hole a decent putt they go away like giants, full of the belief in their power of holing any subsequent putt, however difficult with which they may be confronted, and, of course, in many cases they do.

But let these same individuals take three putts on the first green and they immediately become the victims of a certain morbid introspection which soon amounts to a conviction that their putts are not going to drop in. Why they should be is very difficult to say, for there is no earthly reason why anyone should argue thus, but there it is.

THE fact remains that we are only human; most of us thrive on success and soon grow faint-hearted at failure. We forget the adage, "Try, try, try again," and "once quickly, and in my opinion, very inexcusably, to the conclusion that because we have failed once we must invariably fail again.

Now, how can we school ourselves to get rid of this incubus. It seems to me that one solution is to treat each shot as a separate and distinct effort of its own. We should try to regard the game of golf not so much as a round of 18 holes, but a series of so many strokes, each one, for the purposes of this argument, having no relation to the other. Or we might put it in another way. Do not let one bad shot impinge itself upon another.

Let every stroke in other words be regarded as a little round in itself.

THE problem of confidence at golf is thus linked up individually with the art of mental concentration which Walter Hagen is famous for and in which he has given me much useful advice. From Hagen and from my own experiences, I've learned this:

Concentration is simply the art of thinking hard on one particular thing at a time of being so obsessed with the particular shot we are about to make as to exclude every thought of any indifferent shot which preceded it earlier in the round.

As John Low, a great English golf critic, once wrote: "Do not let the sins of the drive be visited on the children to the third and fourth generation!"

This can only be avoided by obliterating from the mind past failures and preserving a fixed determination to become neither perturbed nor pessimistic at a past mistake, neither elated nor exalted at a past success. Walter Hagen does that to a most admirable degree.

Excessive remembrance of a specially good shot at a certain hole on a previous round is often as much a bane as a remembrance of a bad shot, for this may result in an anxiety to emulate the previous good, and the effect may be disastrous. Either wisely or unwisely our mental make-up is such that few of us can think of two or three things at once and play any game successfully. Undivided attention to the immediate task is not only the safe policy, but it is easier said than done.

Huntington Wins Over Sanborn

Scoring all its points in the first period, Huntington school dfeated Sanborn Seminary, 14 to 8, at Huntington field.

Tom Blake, playing his first game this season for the winners, made a 15-yard dash around right end for the first touchdown. He also drop kicked the extra point into the score.

John Freitas, former Fairhaven high athlete, accounted for the other Huntington score. He fumbled after making a 40-yard run but made up for the miscue shortly afterwards when he took a 30-yard pass from Bill Anderson, for the score.

After Freitas and Velho were carried out with injuries in the third period, Huntington seemed to go to pieces and Sanborn threw Karl Flint for a safety. This was followed by a touchdown with forward passes to Fontes paving the way.

100,000 SEE NOTRE DAME IN ACTION

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (INS)—An old grudge is to be brought up for settlement here today when Notre Dame, hot on the trail of a national football championship, meets Wisconsin, the underdog, before a stadium filled with 100,000 partisans.

Whether Coach Knute Rockne will be on hand to personally direct his horde of Irish is uncertain. A blood clot in his leg has kept the famous mentor a cripple for the last few days. He will be somewhere in the vicinity he has assured his men.

Bolstered by 20,000 followers, Wisconsin is entering the battle with no fears of what might happen when the Notre Dame attacks get started.

They remember last year when the Irish were sent home smarting, licking at the hands of the Northwestern's aggregation.

Coach Thistlethwaite of Wisconsin is believed to have a surprise up his sleeve in the way of a new offensive. He has moved men from the line to the backfield and from the backfield to the line.

Notre Dame, on the other hand, has the usual horde of squadmen to draw from. And with this relay of reserve elevens Rockne can wear down one of the most powerful elevens.

Rockne's team is heralded as the best that Notre Dame has had since the era of the Four Horsemen. Crowley, Elder, Mullen and Brill have proven their ability as ground-gainers above the ordinary. They all already have put down the Navy and Indiana without too much difficulty.

Rockne to Consult Physicians Before Game

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 19 (INS)—Coach Knute Rockne, ill with a leg blood clot, today was to meet Dr. C. J. Barbour, Mayo clinic physician, at Chicago, before the Wisconsin-Notre Dame game. Dr. Barbour will decide whether the coach can appear on the sidelines and direct his men.

The domestic help problem is solved by using a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

The Woodsies will clash with Brooklyn Wanderers in a soccer game this afternoon at Braves field. The Wanderers defeats today at Fore River field, East Cambridge.

Both of these teams are fighting hard for the championship of the Boston district and the winner of today's game will be in a position to win the championship. The Wanderers have already defeated the Woodsies once this season and a victory today will put them in a position to win the championship.

The Woodsies will be strengthened in the forward line by the return of Gold to the lineup. Gold is a scoring ace and his presence will be welcomed by the fans.

Jock McArthur, of "Watch the Watch," as he is known to soccer fans, will be presented a handsome gold watch and chain a gift from the fans, previous to today's contest.

Maj. Maurice Childs, chairman of the committee, and one of the most ardent Bruin fans, will make the presentation.

The Woodsies will be favorites in today's game as the latter have been playing poor soccer in their last few games. The Woodsies have been playing good soccer and are in the best of condition. They will go into the game with all spirit.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON, Golf's Greatest Teacher.

Correctly swinging your hands through the golf swing is accomplished as follows:

For your line of travelling your hands for the backswing, then start the club back with your hands for the backswing, or trackline. Then you have for them to keep on this line all the way back as far as you can without breaking the wrists. Then start the downswing with the hands and keep them on the line of travel until the ball is struck. Your pivot will be perfect, moreover, you will have made it with our knowing exactly where your shoulder high with your hands remembering of course to keep your right elbow correctly positioned so it will be underneath the shaft at the top. This will put the club on the line of travel and across your shoulders at the top—exactly where it should be. The swing may feel to be a bit short, but that will come in the back swing (we'll see how perhaps, as you never imagined it to be.

20 BOUTS AT ST. JOE'S SHOW

The greatest amateur show of the year will be staged by St. Joseph's T. A. S. in Mechanics Building tonight, when more than 40 young men will answer the call to arms.

Pat O'Flaherty, South Boston light-heavyweight, and Ug Gibson, his Revere rival, will be the featured performers in tonight's show. Two weeks ago they fought the most bitter battle in the modern history of amateur boxing, with Gibson winning the decision and both boys fighting it out in the dressing room.

The 160 pounds class, too, has attracted four entries, and with three bouts certain in each class, plenty of hard socking will be unfurled. Rollie Laganiere of Danvers, Billy Edmunds of Boston, and two Roxbury middleweights, Chick Collins and Dan Regan, were the entrants received up to last night.

The 126 and 135 pounds classes which are for novices alone, have each attracted more than 10 entries, while the 112 and 147 pounds classes have also attracted entry after entry.

ELLIS TO PLAY FOR DILBOY

With Fred "Fish" Ellis, former Tufts star, who was picked as All-Eastern end back last year, already to bark signals and run the ends behind the interference of Harry Temple, Benny Friedman, College the Dilboy eleven of Somerville now looms up as one of the most formidable in New England. Dilboy signed Ellis yesterday, after the Tufts ace had turned down many tempting offers of other clubs.

Ellis is coaching at Brighton Academy in Maine, but this will not interfere the least with his making the trip to Somerville every Sunday to play for the Dilboys.

Bob Shawkey to Have Free Rein

New York, Oct. 19 (INS)—That Bob Shawkey, newly-appointed manager of the New York Yankees, was to have free rein in the rebuilding of the former world champions was seen today in Business Manager Ed Barrow's refusal to discuss any future plans for the club until he arrives until Shawkey arrives in town.

Shawkey is expected to arrive in New York early next week from Canada, where he is on a hunting trip.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Health Hint

NUTS are rich in protein and fats, as a rule, but poor in starch and sugar content. It should be borne in mind, however, that although nuts may possess a high food value, they should not supplant vegetables, cereals and fruits. Eat plenty of fruit.

'Doing as the Romans Do,' Not Always Advisable

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A READER of this column, who prefers not to have her name printed, in full, which seems to me rather puzzled as to a question which has troubled many of us at times.

"Should I not apply the proverb, 'When in Rome do as the Romans do'?" she writes.

This, in substance is the question many correspondents write about.

Then he goes on to give an illustration:

"When in the company of other men I write about a lawsuit I always name my full Christian name, but in speaking to a woman I shorten it to a nickname. Should I do this?"

I know many women who would like to know the answer to this question.

Some women, especially those who have had little experience with men, are afraid to be natural in their dealings with them.

They are afraid that they will do something that is not right. They are afraid that they will not come up to the requirements of men.

But strange as it may seem, I am confident that most men have faith in our sex.

They have faith in our honesty and our womanliness.

The question, "When in Rome do as the Romans do?" gives me the opportunity to say a word in behalf of the girl who is not sophisticated.

If the young fellow you go about with likes to dance, by all means dance with him. If he doesn't avoid dancing is not against your principles. In commercial as well as social circles for the girl who thinks she has principles of those with whom she associates. This is not to say that she should sacrifice her principles to pleasure, but to avoid a number of things which are not essential. This is not a question of absolute right or wrong, but of expediency.

Many things are done in society which are not the mothers of the institution and a important thought back of it that making the act could never be called an objectionable one, but indicative of frivolity. To raise the hat from the head slightly in meeting and bowing to a woman is a courteous respect for women and is a custom we cannot afford to forego, as indicative of the manners of other and better days.

Moral courage is needed to quietly stand up in society for one's principles. The man or woman who lacks moral courage has a sufficient right to be classed as one of the low or worthy of marriage.

A girl who refuses to drink or smoke, because she herself thinks such things are improper for a girl to do, is right if for no other reason than that she exactly the good impression upon the man who thinks he is so fine and manly. He may be called an old-fashioned ingenue. But she has the marriage to be herself and to maintain her character. And, other things being equal, she will gain better friendships than any girl who does not have the nerve to stand up for what she thinks is right.

When in Rome do as the Romans do in matters of trivial unimportance when agreeable to you. But remember that you will make things pleasanter for all concerned. But when it comes to questions that involve principles, stand true to your convictions in whatever company you are. This fearless attitude makes for popularity and successful romance. And I really do not think it would be worth-while for its own sake.

Stag's Humility Was Very Winning

"I had to come over, ma mselle, and tell you how darned sorry I am," the young soldier said. "Sorry that I offended. But sorry that I kissed you? Say!" Marion Davies impersonates Marianne, the heroine of this entertaining romance of post-war days.

Chicken Suggestions

WITH tender young chickens so far more reasonable priced than they will be later in the season, there is no time like the present to treat the family to a variety of mouth-watering chicken dishes. Here are such delicious ones I'm suggesting today:

Martha Lee

CHICKEN A LA CREOLE — Clean and cut up a young fowl as for a chicken stew. Season with salt and pepper and fry in hot salt pork until done, not brown and crisp. Remove from pan and keep hot. Add to the gravy in the frying pan one cupful each of tomatoes and boiling water, a few bay leaves and a sprig of celery. Let all come to a boil and then add the chicken. Boil a few minutes and serve.

CHICKEN PIE—Cut up chicken as for stewing, pour over it one quart of hot water, cook slowly till tender. Remove chicken and reduce stock to one pint by rapid boiling. Thicken with 2 tbsps. flour creamed to smoothness with 2 tbsps. melted fat. Line bottom and sides of baking dish with biscuit dough, put chicken in dish, season with salt and 2 tbsps. minced parsley, fill dish more than half full of stock, cover with biscuit dough and bake. Brush top with egg and milk and bake in hot oven 15 minutes.

JELLIED CHICKEN — Dress, clean and cut up a four-pound fowl. Put in a stewpan with two slices onion, one of which has been stuck with cloves, and enough water to cook slowly until meat falls from bones. When half cooked add one tbsp. salt and one teaspoon each pepper and celery seed. When done remove chicken from bones, season stock to taste, boil down to one pint, strain and skim off fat. Decorate bottom of mould with slices of hard-cooked eggs. Pack in meat freed from skin and bones and sprinkle with chopped parsley. Pour on stock and place mould in pan of cold water to keep meat from floating. Put on weight. Keep in a cold place until firm.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

Question of Cups

By MRS. REECKMAN

DEAR MRS. REECKMAN:

There is quite an argument at our office regarding the question of whether you should or should not—owing to a tariff—allow each individual not cups which are exactly at your place home with you.

It has been quite the thing, it seems, in the past where the fancy crepe paper not and bonbon cups were used to take these home with you upon leaving, but the question now is—is it proper to take even the paper ones?

JANE.

If we were to give the appearance of being "accustomed" to the customs of good society—and who of us doesn't, even if we won't admit it?—we would never take the nut cups from the table of a party, no matter what kind of party it is. And we never would have taken them, whether they are of paper or of some more consequential material and of important designs. Such a gesture would suggest an awkward kind of not-being-used-to-good-manners, to even so unattractive habit of conceitedness as being the value of someone.

And we are well-bred people going from a party with the "spoils"—unless they have been especially requested by the hostess to take some trinket as a special kind of souvenir. But they would wait to be requested, I assure you, before they take any kind of nut cup or other detail from the table.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

The Boston Evening American will pay $1 for published smart sayings. Address "Smart Sayings," Boston Evening American.

I asked my little son, Howard, aged 3 years 9 months, how he made the hole in the one of his stocking.

meat—but no suit of it!

I don't mean it eh! We are to attend sure of that—Marianne Cook—when I talk with you I don't know just what I'm saying. Wonder just once out the was I feel. Knocked me all to a heap—that's the truth——

A jingle of chains on harness, a sudden brisk clear tenor, the bow little Stag's head and he began to jump gaily. So engrossed had they been that no one had noticed the approach of Lieut. Fraytne.

"Oh—monsieur Toffee!" Marianne spoke in confusion.

Stag stopped and saluted. His eyes were resentful.

It was plain to see that the dear Lieut. waited for Lieut. Fraytne. Cook found the sergeant who couldn't be found something to keep them fellow busy.

He acknowledged Stag's salute with a gesture of annoyance.

"I would like a word with you, Mademoiselle," he said, stiffly but politely, "if you are not too occupied."

The flushed girl looked at him here and there. For a moment to Stag and the machine gun dimple deepened for a fraction.

On the contrary, Monsieur," she had turned demurely toward the lieutenant, "I am—ample time for my two words."

She would have been very pleased had Stag flushed and stuck his nose in the door and closed against him—if she could have seen the sudden suspicion hardening in that young mouth Marianne might have hesitated.

Inside the big kitchen Fraytne explained the errand which had brought him here so early in the morning.

"I have been asked to attend to the matter of the children of Monsieur Marianne. Monsieur is unable to look after them himself. Nothing else. I am a good student. Everything is to be left to me. I have been given to understand that you have been in charge of them. Therefore, I am here to get all the information I can from you. Will you please begin?"

Marianne's eyes were downcast with her Monsieur. It is unpleasant to be left

DINE AND DANCE NEWS

State Ballroom Newly Decorated

That dancing every evening has its lure for both young and old is manifested by the large crowds that attend the beautiful and capacious State Ballroom, located in the State Theater building.

This famous dancing academy, announced as one of the highest class ballrooms in N. England, has recently undergone a complete change in its decorative scheme, with a result that its appeal should be far greater than ever.

Karle Rohde

Karle Rohde and famous State ballroom orchestra appear regularly on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, and the Georgian Cotton Pickers, Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

monies at the new and magnificent Stella d'Italia. Billy is conducting himself in the manner of a seasoned veteran in this particular capacity, which in his small measure enhances the splendid entertainment offered weekly at this popular resort.

Paine also takes a hand in the arrangement of the weekly entertainment, which is made up of established artists, many of whom have appeared at the leading night clubs both in this country and abroad.

Perley Breed, who needs no introduction to dance lovers of New England, is another outstanding feature of the Stella, with his group of skilled musicians.

A noonday luncheon is also served at the Stella from 11:30 to 2:30.

Dance Features at Cocoanut Grove

Mickie Alpert, the popular master of ceremonies of the Cocoanut Grove, has arranged the sensational adagio dancers, Kaye and Theodore, who are performing nightly at this smart restaurant.

Kay Corbett

Kay and Theodore are a decided addition while Jacques Renard is adding to his enviable reputation by a decidedly new and novel brand of music.

Miss Barrett Big Hit at Mah Jong Cafe

Eileen Barrett, recent winner of the singing contest which was conducted at the Mah Jong Restaurant, is making a big hit with the patrons of that resort this week. Miss Barrett has a Boston girl and has an exceptionally fine voice. She has appeared in a number of local productions and is an excellent entertainer. Theatrical might was observed when the Chinese troupe now appearing at the State Theater were guests of the evening. A special attraction will be given on Halloween and a special treat will be given to every patron. Reservations may be made now for this performance by Winton D. "Smiling" Bee, manager.

Eileen Barrett

Collegiate Bill at Yen Ho Restaurant

A rendezvous for the Harvard and West Point enthusiasts on each night will be at the Yen Ho Restaurant, 245 Tremont st. A special collegiate bill has been arranged as a fitting climax to the game. Babe Bennett, recently of Broadway fame, heads the bill. Murray Hochberg and his orchestra will furnish snappy music. There will be a big Halloween eve celebration with many special and entertaining features. Reservations are now being made for this performance.

Plan to Repeat Theatrical Night

The Embassy Club first Theatrical Night last Wednesday proved a great success and will be continued every week until further notice. The entertainment was in the majority by Karl Carroll's "Vanities" star performers. In addition to this entertainment Hilda Allison proved a great success doing the India nautch dance.

Hilda Allison

Miss Allison also ably entertained with classical and acrobatic dancing. After a short duration at this restaurant she will spend two years abroad and will entertain the Folies Bergere in Paris. Reservations may be made for any night, and Lorenzo should be consulted for courteous and careful treatment.

Leonardi Opens New Restaurant

William H. Leonardi, well known restaurateur, formerly manager of the Hotel Napoli and more recently connected with the Chester Inn, has opened a strictly Italian restaurant at 29 Fayette st, just a short distance from Park sq, and within easy reach of the theaters.

This new and attractive Leonardi Italian restaurant will be open daily, including Sundays, from 5 p. m. until midnight. Its menu will contain a long and varied assortment of famous Italian dishes prepared in true Italian fashion by one of Italy's best known chefs.

Lun Ting Cafe Is Popular Resort

Lun Ting restaurant, 14 Hanover st. and 37 Scollay sq., has long been favored as one of Boston's leading Chinese restaurants. Tempting dishes served differently continue to please the many patrons. Plans are being made for a big Halloween Eve celebration and reservations should be made early to insure seats.
